TV Financial Sniping...

Paar, Sullivan Spar

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the big names in show business fled for cover Friday, lest they be targets in financial sniping between rival television network stars, Ed Sullivan and Jack Paar.

Sullivan accused Paar of paying peanuts to stars who command four-figure fees when they appear on his own Sunday night CBS show.

Grouched Sullivan: "Paar has enough sponsors to pay the going rates."

First of the entertainers to protect an exposed flank was comedian Myron Cohen, who canceled out of Paar's Thursday night NBC show.

"My loyalty lies with Sullivan," said Cohen, who was to have made his first appearance on Paar's late night show.

"I won't do it again," vowed comedian Sam Levenson, a frequent Sullivan guest who recently appeared at a cut-rate price on Paar's show.

Receives Support
However, Paar received support from Joey Bishop, Jonathan Winters and actress Ann Bancroft.

Caught in the middle was comedienne Phyllis Diller, who is scheduled for the Sullivan show March 26 and the Paar show the next night.

"I feel like turning around and leaving town. I feel really indebted to Paar. And I'd really have to be out of my head not to want to appear on the Sullivan show. The only thing I can do is take the $300 on the Sullivan show. I'd rather have friends than money," she said.

Sullivan touched off the battle with an announcement Thursday that from now on he will limit guest stars on his show to the same fee they accept when they appear on Paar's show — $370. Normally, Sullivan pays up to $7,500 for a performance.

Sullivan, a top Sunday night master of ceremonies for years on CBS, said his edict does not apply to beginners, but to established performers. Nor, he added, does he object to stars appearing on Paar's show as long as they just talk. But if they do routines — singing, dancing, comedy skills and the like — bingo, their price henceforth with Sullivan is $370.

"Look," Sullivan said, "if the network brass and sponsors of our show are sitting and watching the Jack Paar show, they say, 'I don't know why these stars come on the Paar show for only $320. Sullivan pays them $5,000.' They think I'm an idiot."

Paar, a past master of the art of being deeply offended, retreated during the day to his suburban Bronxville home. When reporters gathered outside, hopeful of a news conference with him, they were treated instead to a taped recording which advised them in the voice of the master of the manse: "I said all I have to say on my show last night. I have nothing to add at this time."

Paar said Thursday night: "Ed, I don't have the money to pay performers. This show is a low-budget freak that caught on because performers want to come on, and want time to entertain people without the monkey act and without the Japanese jugglers waiting in the wings."

Paar suggested he and Sullivan settle their differences with a rating duel — with the two appearing at the same time on their respective networks.

But Sullivan wasn't having any of that. He said ratings were not an issue.

"The issue is whether stars should get $320 from one show and then demand $7,500 on another show. Any night Jack wants me, I'll be happy to go on his show and debate the thing with him. Obviously, on my show I can't insult people or do any of the things he does, but I'd love to go on his show," Sullivan said.

Late in the day, Paar wired Sullivan an invitation to appear on the NBC show, without actually setting a date. However, Paar declined Sullivan's suggestion that the studio audience be banned.

"Looking forward to seeing you at your convenience, I only hope that your appearance on our show for scale will not ban you from your own. Warmest regards," Paar wired.

For his part, Sullivan wired an appeal to Paar to put off their debate before the TV viewers rather than a studio audience.

"I'm sure you will agree with me, Jack," said Sullivan, "that our debate is the important thing, rather than the studio sound effects. I'm counting on you to wire me your acceptance on this on the basis of good sportsmanship."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal-state aid for the children of jobless parents was approved by the House Friday but President Kennedy's emergency program of unemployment relief faced a threatened slowdown in the Senate.

The House passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate a bill that would make children of the unemployed eligible for the same benefits now received by children whose parents become disabled, die, or desert them.

If all 50 states chose to participate the bill would cost the government an estimated $305 million; based on a 60-40 federal-state matching formula. Not all the states are expected to do so, however.

In the Senate, the child aid bill overtook a companion measure passed by the House last week which would provide up to 13 weeks additional unemployment benefits to long-idle workers who have exhausted their present rights.

Complete Hearings
The Senate Finance Committee completed public hearings on the 13-week extension measure but received demands for amendments that could throw the legislation into a Senate-House conference.

The extension bill would cost an estimated $990 million to $1 billion. Like the child aid measure, it would expire on June 30, 1962.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, pleading that "time is of the essence" to relieve hardship for 600,000 jobless who have used up their benefits, urged the committee to approve the House version without change.

Goldberg urged enactment in time for the "extra" payments to start by mid-April. He has noted that it will take some time after the bill is signed into law to complete the administrative tasks needed to get the payments going.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., announced the committee would start closed-door meetings Tuesday to consider whether the bill should be amended.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., announced he will demand two amendments. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., announced previously he wants an amendment to correct what he termed an inequality

UN Confident It Will Soon Gain Matadi

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Rajeshwar Dayal, head of the United Nations Congo mission, left for New York Friday confident the Congolese soon will restore the major port of Matadi to U.N. control.

The prospect that the Congolese army will lose its stranglehold on the port through which flows the bulk of U.N. supplies came amid these other developments in the turbulent Congo:

1. Reports lacking U.N. confirmation spread that Antoine Gizenga had been unseated as head of the Communist-backed rebel regime in Stanleyville by army commander Victor Lundula or President Jean Foster Manzika of Oriental Province.

2. While acknowledging the United Nations does not know who is wielding power in Oriental, a spokesman said ex-President Jean Miroho and 10 of his ministers from Kivu Province had been released from prison in Stanleyville. They were jailed by Gizenga when he seized Kivu in December.

Supercabinet
3. In Malagasy Republic the roundtable conference of Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu, President Moïse Tshombe of independent Katanga Province, and other Congolese leaders agreed to create a supercabinet to preside over a new Congo federation.

The federation, excluding Gizenga, will be made up of independent states set up on tribal lines. Katanga and the independent mining state in southern Kasai Province were reported among the first to be accepted as federation members.

which would reduce benefits available for jobless Pennsylvanians.

Williams said he will move to substitute pay-as-you-go financing for the deferred funding of the bill's emergency benefits. A temporary two-year 4 per cent increase in employers' payroll taxes would finance the program, and Williams said it should be imposed retroactively to Jan. 1.

The House-approved bill would defer collection of the tax until January 1963 and January 1964.

Also Demands
Williams also demanded an amendment to curb what he calls abuses of the unemployment compensation program. He said he has learned of a 71-year-old retired government worker who in one year collected a government pension of $188 a month, $48 of Social Security for himself and his wife, $78.75 a month veterans pension, a cash settlement in lieu of accrued vacation time, plus unemployment compensation.

Williams said a survey of 298 retired government workers shows 45 of them received at one time three or more types of federal benefits including unemployment compensation.

However, Paar received support from Joey Bishop, Jonathan Winters and actress Ann Bancroft.

Caught in the middle was comedienne Phyllis Diller, who is scheduled for the Sullivan show March 26 and the Paar show the next night.

"I feel like turning around and leaving town. I feel really indebted to Paar. And I'd really have to be out of my head not to want to appear on the Sullivan show. The only thing I can do is take the $320 on the Sullivan show. I'd rather have friends than money," she said.

Sullivan touched off the battle with an announcement Thursday that from now on he will limit guest stars on his show to the same fee they accept when they appear on Paar's show — $370. Normally, Sullivan pays up to $7,500 for a performance.

Sullivan, a top Sunday night master of ceremonies for years on CBS, said his edict does not apply to beginners, but to established performers. Nor, he added, does he object to stars appearing on Paar's show as long as they just talk. But if they do routines — singing, dancing, comedy skits and the like — bingo, their price henceforth with Sullivan is $370.

"Look," Sullivan said, "if the network brass and sponsors of our show are sitting and watching the Jack Paar show, they say, 'I don't know why these stars come on the Paar show for only $320. Sullivan pays them $5,000. They think I'm an idiot.'"

Paar, a past master of the art of being deeply offended, retreated during the day to his suburban Bronxville home. When reporters gathered outside, hopeful of a news conference with him, they were treated instead to a taped recording which advised them in the voice of the master of the manse: "I said all I have to say on my show last night. I have nothing to add at this time."

Paar said Thursday night:

Low Budget Show
"Ed, I don't have the money to pay performers. This show is a low-budget freak that caught on because performers want to come on, and want time to entertain people without the money acts and without the Japanese jugglers waiting in the wings."

Paar suggested he and Sullivan settle their differences with a rating duel — with the two appearing at the same time on their respective networks.

But Sullivan wasn't having any of that. He said ratings were not an issue.

"The issue is whether stars should get $320 from one show and then demand $7,500 on another show. Any night Jack wants me, I'll be happy to go on his show and debate the thing with him. Obviously, on my show I can't insult people or do any of the things he does, but I'd love to go on his show," Sullivan said.

Late in the day, Paar wired Sullivan an invitation to appear on the NBC show, without actually setting a date. However, Paar declined Sullivan's suggestion that the studio audience be banned.

"Looking forward to seeing you at your convenience, I only hope that your appearance on our show for scale will not ban you from your own. Warmest regards," Paar wired.

For his part, Sullivan wired an appeal to Paar to put on their debate before the TV viewers rather than a studio audience.

"I'm sure you will agree with me, Jack," said Sullivan, "that our debate is the important thing rather than the studio sound effects. I'm counting on you to wire me your acceptance on this on the basis of good sportsmanship."

Bank Teller Pleads Guilty

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—A Hazleton National Bank teller who pleaded guilty to taking $4,500 from the bank's Lehigh branch was given a suspended sentence and placed on two years probation Friday by Federal Judge John W. Murphy.

Murphy dealt leniently with the defendant, Mrs. Gertrude L. Hein, wife of a Lehigh County councilman, after it was disclosed restitution has been made and it was her first brush with the law.

UN Confident It Will Soon Gain Matadi

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Rajeshwar Dayal, head of the United Nations Congo mission, left for New York Friday confident the Congolese soon will restore the major port of Matadi to U.N. control.

The prospect that the Congolese army will lose its stranglehold on the port through which flows the bulk of U.N. supplies came amid these other developments in the turbulent Congo:

1. Reports lacking U.N. confirmation spread that Antoine Gizenga had been unseated as head of the Communist-backed rebel regime in Stanleyville by army commander Victor Lundula or President Jean Foster Manzikala of Oriental Province.

2. While acknowledging the United Nations does not know who is wielding power in Oriental, a spokesman said ex-President Jean Miroho and 10 of his ministers from Kivu Province had been released from prison in Stanleyville. They were jailed by Gizenga when he seized Kivu in December.

Supercabinet
3. In Malagasy Republic the roundtable conference of Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu, President Moise Tshombe of independent Katanga Province, and other Congolese leaders agreed to create a supercabinet to preside over a new Congo federation.

The federation, excluding Gizenga, will be made up of independent states set up on tribal lines. Katanga and the independent mining state in southern Kasai Province were reported among the first to be accepted as federation members.

On the issue of Matadi, a Congolese spokesman said terms for the U.N. return to the port will be decided by Kasavubu. A U.N. statement reported talks will be resumed on the basis of Kasavubu's decision.

Dayal seemed cheerful and confident as he left by plane to attend the session of the U.N. General Assembly in New York. He said he planned to be away about two weeks and gaily brushed aside suggestions he might not return. His replacement was one of the concessions demanded by the Congolese for giving up Matadi.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., announced the committee would start closed-door meetings Tuesday to consider whether the bill should be amended.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., announced he will demand two amendments. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., announced previously he wants an amendment to correct what he termed an inequality

Parents Aided But Slowdown Is Faced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal-state aid for the children of jobless parents was approved by the House Friday but President Kennedy's emergency program of unemployment relief faced a threatened slowdown in the Senate.

The House passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate a bill that would make children of the unemployed eligible for the same benefits now received by children whose parents become disabled, die, or desert them.

If all 50 states chose to participate the bill would cost the government an estimated $305 million, based on a 60-40 federal-state matching formula. Not all the states are expected to do so, however.

In the Senate, the child aid bill overtook a companion measure passed by the House last week which would provide up to 13 weeks additional unemployment benefits to long-idle workers who have exhausted their present rights.

Complete Hearings
The Senate Finance Committee completed public hearings on the 13-week extension measure but received demands for amendments that could throw the legislation into a Senate-House conference.

The extension bill would cost an estimated $900 million to $1 billion. Like the child aid measure, it would expire on June 30, 1962.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, pleading that "time is of the essence" to relieve hardship for 600,000 jobless who have used up their benefits, urged the committee to approve the House version without change.

Goldberg urged enactment in time for the extra payments to start by mid-April. He has noted that it will take some time after the bill is signed into law to complete the administrative tasks needed to get the payments going.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., announced the committee would start closed-door meetings Tuesday to consider whether the bill should be amended.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., announced he will demand two amendments. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., announced previously he wants an amendment to correct what he termed an inequality

which would reduce benefits available for jobless Pennsylvanians.

Williams said he will move to substitute pay-as-you-go financing for the deferred funding of the bill's emergency benefits. A temporary two-year 1 per cent increase in employers' payroll taxes would finance the program, and Williams said it should be imposed retroactively to Jan. 1.

The House-approved bill would defer collection of the tax until January 1963 and January 1964.

Also Demands
Williams also demanded an amendment to curb what he calls abuses of the unemployment compensation program. He said he has learned of a 71-year-old retired government worker who in one year collected a government pension of $188 a month, $48 of Social Security for himself and his wife, $78.75 a month veterans pension, a cash settlement in lieu of accrued vacation time, plus unemployment compensation.

Williams said a survey of 238 retired government workers shows 45 of them received at one time three or more types of federal benefits including unemployment compensation.

Goldberg urged the senator to save the amendments for consideration when Kennedy proposes a revision of the basic unemployment compensation law in a later bill.

Diver Finds Crash Victim; 7 Still Lost

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A Navy diver Friday recovered the body of a Navy aviator who died when a patrol bomber crashed with eight crewmen into Lake George.

The body was the first to be found.

The PV2 Neptune plunged into the water during a bombing practice run Thursday night.

The name of the aviator whose body was recovered was not immediately available.

The body was found on the bottom of the muddy lake, strapped to a seat which had been torn loose from the wrecked plane.

Diving operations were suspended for the day when the water became choppy.

The plane with a portion of its tail section showing was located in 10 to 15 feet of water about 200 yards from a target in the Lake George bombing range 75 miles south of Jacksonville.

The ill-fated craft was practicing antisuicide runs Thursday night with its searchlight on the target when it went into a climbing left turn.

"This developed into a descending left turn with the searchlight still on," said the pilot of an accompanying Navy craft. "The plane struck the water at a steep angle and it appeared to explode."

Envoy Ends "K" Talks; Gives Report

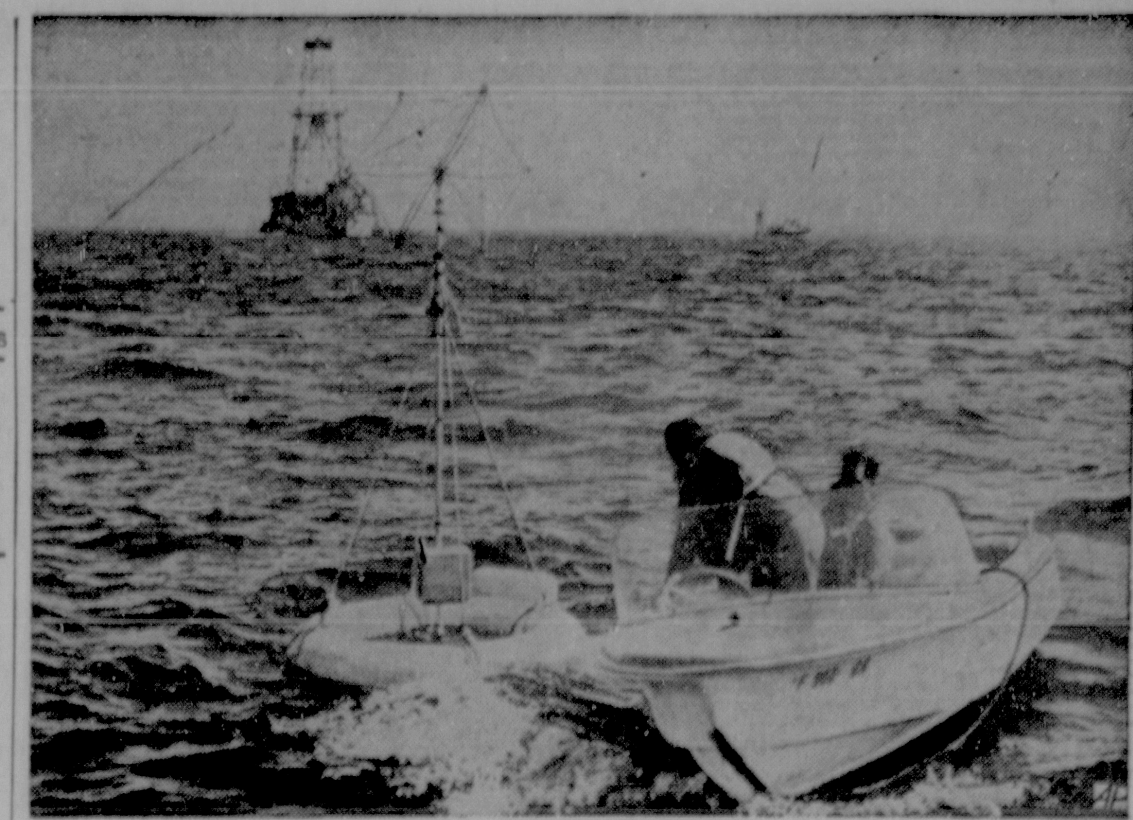

MOSCOW (AP) — U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson spent all day Friday writing an exhaustive report to President Kennedy on his unprecedented mid-Siberian conference with Premier Khrushchev.

He sent it off to Washington by teletype. He firmly declined to give reporters any hint of what is in it. It is obvious Kennedy's wish for quiet diplomacy is being strictly observed.

Thompson stuck by his airport remark of Thursday night that "I have always been an optimist and always will be." But reporters gained the impression this did not mean he expected any spectacular new improvement in Soviet-American relations.

The chief feeling was that Thompson was glad exploratory talks of this nature had begun and hoped they would continue.

He said the time he spent with the premier was nearer five hours than the four he reported earlier. This is a long time for the premier to spend with the ambassador of any country and indicated the talks were extremely far-ranging.

U.S. To Maintain Troops

Says Berlin Compromise Proposals No Longer Hold

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration divorced itself Friday from concessions once offered the Soviet Union by the Western powers in an effort to negotiate a short-term agreement on the future of West Berlin.

The State Department also asserted that the United States has no intention of reducing its military garrison in that city, which the Western powers are pledged to protect against Communist pressures.

The United States, Britain and France have approximately 11,000 soldiers stationed in West Berlin, of which about 6,000 are Americans.

The concessions were offered to the Soviet Union by joint action of the three Western powers during a conference at Geneva in the summer of 1960. Under negotiation was a proposal for a limited agreement by which the Communists would have been committed to keep hands off West Berlin for a number of years, at least.

No Accord
The Geneva conference failed to produce any East-West accord. Later the question arose whether the concessions which the Western powers had offered, including a possible cut in the size of the West Berlin garrison, would provide the starting point for new East-West negotiations on West Berlin's status.

Eisenhower administration officials then said privately that if further negotiations did take place the same concessions might not be offered, but they would not constitute the initial bargaining position for the Western powers.

Comments Friday by State Department spokesmen were much more explicit and they were on the public record.

The diplomatic effect was to serve notice to the Soviet government that past offers on Berlin will not necessarily figure in any future East-West negotiations. This hardened the United States' initial bargaining position.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said he was speaking only for the American government but he assumed that Britain and France take the same position.

As to the size of the West Berlin protective force, White declared emphatically: "I would like to state that the United States has no intention of reducing its garrison in West Berlin."

He thus put in precise terms what had been implied by Secretary of State Dean Rusk at a news conference Thursday. Rusk said "We are strongly committed to the freedom of the people of that city and we expect to sustain our own position in that city as we look into the future."

Senate Okays Grain Program
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate approved an emergency one-year feed grain control program after rejecting the Kennedy administration's proposed compliance clause.

The vote was 52-26, with 41 Democrats and 11 Republicans supporting the bill and 3 Democrats and 18 Republicans opposing it.

Senate critics referred to the compliance clause variously as a "persuader" and as a "subtle effort at compulsion."

The House included the provision when it passed the bill by a close 299-202 margin Thursday, but Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said "The Senate will not take it."

Ellender, floor manager for the Senate bill, said he would "rather have no bill at all" than accept a provision which House Republicans said would make Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman a czar of the grain markets.

Jobless Total Slackens A Bit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The steady winter-long rise in the number of workers drawing unemployment compensation benefits, halted and edged down during the week ended Feb. 25.

The Labor Department reported Friday that unemployment among workers insured for jobless benefits declined that week for the first time since October. The drop was 13,500, with the total falling to 3,408,800.

The department's employment security bureau said that although there was a slight decline from the prior week's record 3,422,300 total the Feb. 25 figure still represents a record jobless volume for this time of the year.

The rate of unemployment among all workers insured for jobless benefits was 8.4 per cent during the Feb. 25 week. This compares with a 5.5 per cent rate and 2,155,800 volume for the comparable week in 1960.

Summer Has Ended

Doctors Are Happy Over Liz's Health

LONDON (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor continued her recovery from a near-fatal attack of pneumonia and doctors said late Friday night they are happy over her general condition.

A breathing tube inserted in the neck of the 29-year-old actress last week will be removed Saturday, they said.

A bulletin issued by the seven-man medical team attending Miss Taylor said: "Her lungs have shown definite improvement on the X-ray and everything is going as well as can be expected."

Miss Taylor was showing an intense interest in details of the illness that took her to a hospital last weekend, into an emergency operation and emergency treatment that was none too soon.

"She's a very sick girl still," said an associate, "but it's hard to hold her down. She wants to know what happened. It was all so sudden."

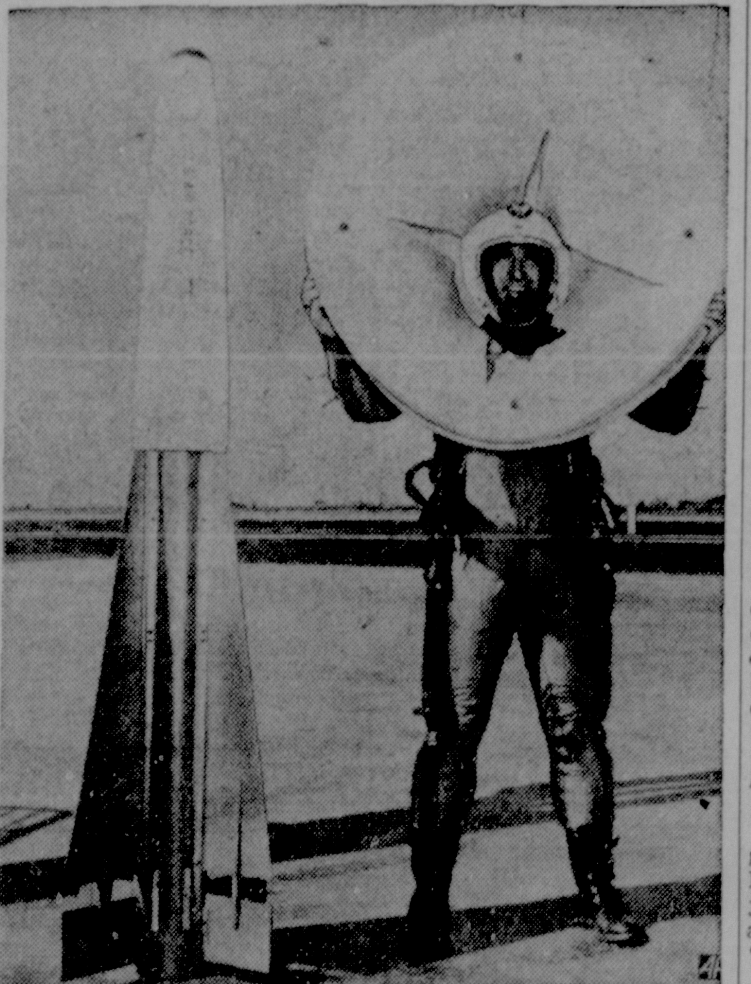

Now off oxygen for the first time in almost a week, the world's highest paid film actress had several conversations Friday with her nurses and doctors and with husband Eddie Fisher, who has been almost constantly by her side in the London Clinic.

She smiled weakly and talked, but only with effort.

How long Miss Taylor will be kept in the hospital is problematical. Her friend, Miss Sue Cardozo, said: "It's extremely difficult to say. She is in quite some pain and she has a long road back. You can imagine the terrific physical punishment of such an experience. Such reports as 'out of hospital in ten days' are not based on medical reasoning at this point. I should think it will be very much longer than that."

Aside from her parents and husband, Miss Taylor is forbidden visitors. But Spyros Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, is due here Monday and hopes to see her.

He then will confer with Syd Rogell, Fox chief in Europe, and Director Joseph Mankiewicz, on what to do about the multimillion-dollar film "Cleopatra." Skouras insists Miss Taylor still is his only choice for the title role, even though there is some thinking she may need almost a year's recovery before she can take on an arduous shooting schedule.

Englishmen Admit

LONDON (AP) — Two distinguished Englishmen admitted Friday they've been playing a joke for years on that staid and authoritative annual volume "Who's Who."

Under the entry for Sir Tom Hickinbotham, former governor of Aden, comes: "Collaborated with E. B. Wakefield, in his circumnavigation of Warbah Island."

Under member of Parliament Edward Wakefield's biography: "Joined Sir Tom Hickinbotham, in his circumnavigation of Warbah Island, 1942."

Questioned about the feat, Sir Tom said in an interview: "It's all rather a joke. Warbah Island is, in fact, a mudflat in the Persian Gulf, only just visible at high water. It covers about three square miles."

He said he and Wakefield once worked in the Persian Gulf area.

"One day I said to Mr. Wakefield, 'See here, nobody's ever heard of Warbah Island.' So we decided to put it on the map by sailing around it in a launch."

That was a long time ago and every year they've proclaimed their journey in "Who's Who."

A first-time entry in the 1961 edition — out Friday — is the Irish playwright Brendan Behan, who listed his recreations as "drinking, talking and swimming."

Religion Today:

Christianity Having Tough Time

GROUNTVILLE, South Africa (AP)—Christianity—and especially Christianity missions—now are having a tough time in the new Africa. But a prominent and respected African thinks there is still a great need for the church and missions if they boldly will adopt new methods.

He is Albert Luthuli, the ex-

Zulu chief who is leader of the African National Congress now outlawed by South Africa's white government.

Luthuli is a handsome and mild-mannered African whose efforts to gain political rights for his people in this white-ruled country have gained for him nomination abroad for the Nobel Peace Prize and here, most recently, appearances at South Africa's marathon treason trial.

Lutheran Returns

Now back at his rural home he expressed no bitterness over eight years of nearly continuous banning and detention in an interview conducted by the American editor of the monthly "Our Africa."

Luthuli surveyed the turbulent African scene—the Congo where some Africans maltreated and drove out white missionary teachers; numerous newly independent African countries where Africans lost faith and the Christian church lost face; here in South Africa, where the churches are sorely split on the white supremacy government's segregation policies and what to do about them.

"Do you feel Christianity has any answer for today's problems?" he was asked.

"In my view the Christian church is making itself misunderstood," he replied. "First, the Christian message was brought by the white man. And the average African man says the white man is the cause of all his trouble. He doesn't discriminate between white men and see that some came here for material gain and others came with the message of God."

"Secondly, if the church appears to be indifferent to the suffering of the people, the people won't listen to the church. And if the church just simply keeps quiet, I might understand. But the other man does not."

Church Has Mission

Luthuli said the church has a very important mission in today's turbulent Africa and that it could do a job that no one else can. "How can anybody say we don't need Christian missions any more?" Luthuli exclaimed. "Missions inject new life into our people and teach and train us. Missions will be needed for a long time to come. But we will not accept paternalism. We want the same encouragement missionaries in the past gave us, but in a different way."

"The church must see its mission in a new Africa, and there are at least four ways in which the church is needed to help."

"First—it must train African leaders of a high quality. This has been delayed too long, and the training has been of low standard."

"Second—The church must speed up its youth work. We have to capture the youth now, in the rural areas as well as the cities. Schools have not taken over the task of youth work and we might stay the tide of drifting from the church by working hard to capture the youth now."

"Third—The church must not hesitate to speak out. If the minister must suffer for speaking, he must suffer. There is seeming indifference to problems, a running shy of even meeting political leaders. The result is a schism between minister and political leader that harms them both."

"Fourth—We need the church to help us in selecting what was good in our past. It's a tragedy to say, 'Our past was good, let's go back.' For instance, nothing will justify polygamy, nothing will justify witchcraft. There were good things in the past, but some don't discriminate. It is superficial to accept all heathen customs as good. To be my own man, I must go back. Go back then, but choose that which agrees with Christian principle. And the church should aid in discriminating selection from the past."

Today's Lesson: Promise Of The Spirit

THE TIME at which the events in our lesson occurred was Thursday evening of Holy Week, April 7, A.D. 30. The place was the upper room in Jerusalem, or en route to the Garden of Gethsemane.

Jesus comforted His disciples, saying, "Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto Myself; that where I am, there ye may be also."—John 14:1-3.

Thomas said, "Lord, we know not whither Thou goest; and how can we know the way?" Jesus answered, "I am the way, the truth, and the life; no man cometh unto the Father, but by Me."—John 14:5-6.

Philip begged, "Shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us." Jesus answered, "Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known Me, Philip?"—John 14:8-9.

"Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that believeth on Me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto My Father."—John 14:12.

mandments. And I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another Comforter, that may abide with you for ever; Even the Spirit of truth... I will not leave you comfortless."—John 14:15-18.

Judas (not Iscariot) said to Him, "Lord, how is it that Thou wilt manifest Thyself unto us, and not unto the world?"

Jesus answered him, saying, "If a man love Me, he will keep My words; and My Father will love him, and make Our abode with him."—John 14:22-23.

Religion Today:

Christianity Having Tough Time

GROUPTVILLE, South Africa (AP)—Christianity—and especially Christian missions—are having a tough time in the new Africa. But a prominent and respected African thinks there is still a great need for the church and missions if they boldly will adopt new methods.

He is Albert Luthuli, the ex-Zulu chief who is leader of the African National Congress now outlawed by South Africa's white government.

Luthuli is a handsome and mild-mannered African whose efforts to gain political rights for his people in this white-ruled country have gained for him nomination abroad for the Nobel Peace Prize and here, most recently, appearances at South Africa's marathon treason trial.

Leader Returns

Now back at his rural home he expressed no bitterness over eight years of nearly continuous banishment and detention in an interview conducted by the American

editor of the monthly "Our Africa."

Luthuli surveyed the turbulent African scene—the Congo where some Africans mistreated and drove out white missionary teachers; numerous newly independent African countries where Africans lost faith and the Christian church lost face; here in South Africa, where the churches are sorely split on the white supremacy government's segregation policies and what to do about them.

"Do you feel Christianity has any answer for today's problems?" he was asked.

"In my view the Christian church is making itself misunderstood," he replied. "First, the Christian message was brought by the white man. And the average African man says the white man is the cause of all his trouble. He doesn't discriminate between white men and see that some came here for material gain and others came with the message of God."

"Secondly, if the church appears to be indifferent to the suffering of the people, the people won't listen to the church. And if the church just simply keeps quiet, I might understand. But the other man does not."

Church Has Mission

Luthuli said the church has a very important mission in today's turbulent Africa and that it could do a job that no one else can.

"How can anybody say we don't need Christian missions any more?" Luthuli exclaimed. "Missions inject new life into our people and teach and train us. Missions will be needed for a long time to come. But we will not accept paternalism. We want the same encouragement missionaries in the past gave us, but in a different way."

"The church must see its mission in a new Africa, and there are at least four ways in which the church is needed to help."

"First—It must train African leaders of a high quality. This has been delayed too long, and the training has been of low standard."

"Second—The church must speed up its youth work. We have to capture the youth now, in the rural areas as well as the cities. Schools have not taken over the task of youth work and we might say the tide of drifting from the church by working hard to capture the youth now."

"Third—The church must not hesitate to speak out. If the minister must suffer for speaking, he must suffer. There is something in difference to problems, a running shy of even meeting political leaders. The result is a schism between minister and political leader that harms them both."

"Fourth—We need the church to help us in selecting what was good in our past. It's a tragedy to say, 'Our past was good, let's go back.' For instance, nothing will justify polygamy, nothing will justify witchcraft. There were good things in the past, but some don't discriminate. It is superficial to accept all heathen customs as good. To be my own man, I must go back. Go back then, but choose that which agrees with Christian principle. And the church should aid in discriminatory selection from the past."

Catechumens To Attend Rally

THE annual Confirm and Service of the Eastern District of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium and adjacent states will be held Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in St. John's Lutheran Church, Easton.

The Catechetical Classes of Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, and St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Smithfield at Craig Meadows will leave Grace Church at 2 p.m. Sunday. Each catechumen will receive a six inch cross made out of wood from the Holy Land as a memento of this service. Pastor Wunder requests 100 per cent representation of the classes. Confirmation will be held in Grace Church on Palm Sunday at 11 a.m. and at St. Paul's at 7:30 p.m.

Instead, the man of the house got out the tractor; his wife stood behind him. Off they went through the cold morning air, arriving a little late, but very much among those present for morning worship.

USW Head In Hospital

PITTSBURGH (AP)—David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, is in Mercy Hospital for treatment of an acute respiratory infection and checkup, his office disclosed Friday.

McDonald entered the hospital last night and is expected to be confined for several days. As a result he will miss a meeting of the long-range committee established by the union and Kaiser Steel Corp. in Honolulu scheduled to start early next week.

Received By Queen

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd of South Africa was received by Queen Elizabeth II yesterday at Buckingham Palace. The queen is receiving in turn all Commonwealth prime ministers now attending a conference in London.

Cites Excuses For Missing Services

NEWFOUNDLAND—There are all kinds of excuses for not attending church, according to the Rev. Larry T. Lindenmuth, pastor of the Moravian Church.

Rev. Lindenmuth notes, in the church newsletter published this week, that two of his congregation ignored a perfectly good excuse for going back to bed one cold Sunday morning. The battery of their car was dead, and they had good reason for going back to the house and listening to some religious program on the radio or going back to bed thinking the minister's sermon would probably be dull, anyway.

Instead, the man of the house got out the tractor; his wife stood behind him. Off they went through the cold morning air, arriving a little late, but very much among those present for morning worship.

Britain Faces Currency Test

LONDON (AP)—Twelve pence make a shilling, two shillings a florin, five shillings a crown, 20 shillings a pound, 21 shillings a guinea.

And the question is: Shall Britain give up this quaint currency arrangement in favor of a decimal system as other parts of the Commonwealth have done or are doing?

A man-in-the-street poll by the mass circulation Daily Mail shows 50 per cent for changing, 42.8 against 7.2 undecided.

U. S. families spend an average of $19 a week for food. Last year retail grocery stores invested nearly $5.00 per family in newspaper advertising to help move their products from their shelves into the family larder.

CLOCK WATCHERS

Are men becoming smaller than the clocks they watch? As we rush from plane to plane, city to city, appointment to appointment, are we shrinking rather than growing?

For centuries men have gone forth from their homes to work, either by foot, ship, horseback or in a jet that can cross a continent between lunch and dinner. Whether in the end it was "worth it" has always depended on whether a man found time as the years went by for those things even more important than success—his family, his home, and his church.

If the demands of your job—the pace of your life—have chained you to a clock that is getting bigger than you are, pause to remember: in any human life there are only so many hours, none of which may be reclaimed once they've ticked by. Pause to realize, too, that it takes only a minute to pray, only an hour to go to church on Sunday—yet the benefits reaped from even such brief dedication to God can be eternal.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Unsound Proposal

The Federal Communications Commission will ask Congress to pass a law requiring all new TV sets to be equipped to receive the relatively unused UHF Channels 14 through 83. If this law passes, your next TV set will have such a tuner, and you will pay for it.

TV makers say the government's $10 estimate of the extra cost per set would be nearer $25.

The UHF Channels 2 through 13 which probably exist on your sets were the original ones allocated. The FCC had underestimated grossly the demand for TV channels and set aside too few. When the demand of broadcasters and viewers became immense, the FCC set aside an additional block of channels. But millions of TV sets already were in use which would last for years, and which would not receive the new channels.

Some broadcasters went broke on the UHF channels for lack of listeners.

Now, all this time any viewer who wanted to could buy a converter. He also could order the extra channels on his new set. Few did, although a converter sells today for as little as $15.

Because TV owners shunned the new channels ("why spend $15 to see more cowboy shows?") the FCC now proposes to force the channels upon them. You may, therefore, have to pay $25 extra for your next set. Of course, there may be no such channel in your area, and there may be none during the life of your set. If there is, it may be a day-time-only educational station that you won't be home to watch.

Or the extra cost may change your mind (and the minds of many others) about buying a new set at all, which is hardly a desirable result when sales and employment are down.

Not too long ago, FM radio stations had too few listeners to operate profitably, too. They made people want to go out and buy FM sets by contriving new kinds of programs not available on regular stations, and now are enjoying a boom. The same thing might have happened with channels 14-83.

The FCC's solution will mean money out of every TV buyer's pocket by compulsion and therefore is not in the public interest.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Needed Legislation

The proposal to compel registration of, and reports by, legislative lobbyists in Pennsylvania is an "administration bill" that it was submitted by the Lawrence administration as a part of its program, but it deserves attention not on that basis, but as a piece of legislation needed by the people of the state.

Over a period of a quarter of a century efforts have been made from time to time to get the activities of lobbyists placed on public record, so that the people of the state could read and judge for themselves — but they have all failed, for one reason or another. The delay in enacting such a law, it seems to us, has gone on long enough.

The pending measure would require that all persons engaged in trying to influence legislation register with the secretary of the Senate and the chief clerk of the House, giving the name and address of the person in whose interest he appears, by whom he will be paid, and how he will be paid. He must, in addition, file regular reports showing the total of contributions he has received, the names of persons contributing $100 or more, and the names of persons to whom he has paid $10 or more.

Exempted from the provisions of the act would be political committees, news-men insofar as they limit themselves to articles for publication, officers and employees of the commonwealth and persons who merely appear before a committee or public hearing relative to legislation. These exceptions would seem to eliminate any possibility of the law working a hardship on anyone — perhaps they even go too far by exempting commonwealth officials and employees.

The information that the bill calls for, we believe, is the bare minimum to which the people of the state are entitled, and the present legislature should face up to the problem with a greater degree of responsibility than has been manifested in the past, and place the law on the statute books with as little delay as practical.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Red China Again

Each year, when the General Assembly of the United Nations meets, Soviet Russia more or less strenuously proposes to have Red China seated in the United Nations. The United States always opposed this effort — also more or less strenuously depending upon the state of affairs.

It is not always clear that Soviet Russia really desired its great ally to sit in this international council, particularly in recent years when Red China has become a competitor rather than a collaborator of the Kremlin for leadership in the growing Soviet Universal State.

At any rate, the years have passed and Red China has not been admitted. The first nation to wage war against the United Nations has no place within the United Nations. The incongruity seems clear to all who believe in world order.

Nevertheless, Great Britain, on the plea of realism, favors the admission of Red China. The British are obsessed with the notion that they can achieve a split between Red China and Soviet Russia.

The basis for their assumption is the growing antagonism between the two countries, an antagonism which is ideological within the Communist faith but which does not include the prospect of the Marxist-Leninist Revolution being made to fail in the interest of colonialists and capitalists.

There is another factor in the British anxiety to recognize Red China and that is the prospect of trade. China was, once upon a time, one of Great Britain's best customers. The ports of Hongkong, Shanghai, Tientsin and along the Yangtze River, Kiangsu and Hankow, were British dominated.

The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank dominated the economic life of China. Jardine Matheson, one of the greatest trading firms in the world, was the principal industrial, mercantile and shipping business in the Far East. The British-American Tobacco Company supplied a nation with cigarettes when that became the national substitute for opium.

It was good to be a Britisher in China in the good old days. It meant power, authority and money. It meant being supported by the mightiest navy on Earth. It meant being part of an elite.

Then came 1925. It was the year of the great anti-British boycott which started because a Sikh policeman shot a Chinese worker. That was the excuse just as every great historic event has an excuse and a reality.

What actually had happened was that the Kuomintang, the Nationalist Party of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, had formed an alliance with Soviet Russia. The Russians sent about 100 advisors and technicians to Canton to help Sun. At the head of them were Michael Borodin and General Galens-Blucher.

Borodin worked directly under Karl Radek in the Third International. He was a lawyer from Chicago, brilliant in his ability to carry out a program among a people whom he hardly knew.

Dr. Sun died on March 12, 1925, but that did not affect the situation. The Revolutionary Army led by Chiang Kai-shek and General Galens-Blucher marched up the Yangtze Valley. Meanwhile, Borodin built the boycott movement against the British, a movement which so completely disturbed China that it broke down resistance to anything that the combination of the Kuomintang and the Communists tried to do.

Li Lihsun, a Communist labor leader, arranged for strikes in factories all over the country. Chen Tu-hsiu, who was then the leader of the Communist Party, worked in the open against the British.

Not only was the boycott effective but the British lost most of their concessions in China.

For a short time thereafter the British regained some of their trade but in 1931, Japan made war upon China, a war which continued until 1945, when China, exhausted, mistreated by her allies, betrayed by her friends, had to continue battling against the Chinese Communists who, with the assistance of Soviet Russia, used the war to build their strength.

There is no basis for assuming that the British can regain this trade. Nevertheless, Hongkong, which Red China could have taken, remained a British port

Something's Missing On This Mission To Moscow

Reports From Congress

Knotty Issue

Washington — President Kennedy's education program, presented to Congress in February, is running full blast into the emotion-ridden controversy over federal aid to parochial schools.

Participants on all sides of the issue base their arguments on what they believe the Constitution allows or forbids. While all agree that the 1st Amendment of the Constitution requires that somewhere a line must be drawn between Church and State, the precise application of this line to specific legislative proposals is still a matter of heated argument.

The President's program calls for grants to public elementary and secondary schools, but omits either grants or loans for parochial schools. The President has said "aid" to parochial schools is clearly unconstitutional. However, Mr. Kennedy is requesting low-interest loans, for construction of classrooms, to both public and private, sectarian colleges. His proposed college scholarship program would make grants to both the student and his college, public or private.

Leading American Catholics say they will oppose the program if it does not include loans to parochial schools. While not asking for grants, the Catholic hierarchy says long-term, low-interest loans would be "strictly within the framework of the Constitution" and it would be discriminatory not to provide them.

Existing legislation — Loans to parochial schools and sectarian colleges are available under several existing programs. Opponents of further aid to parochial elementary and secondary schools contend that the existing programs do not aid religion but serve some other purpose, such as rewarding war veterans, or promoting health and welfare. Against this, some supporters of the Catholic position contend there is ample precedent for loans to parochial schools, and the issue is more political than constitutional.

The major existing programs are as follows:

College housing program — Since 1950, the Government has granted long-term, low-interest loans to public and private colleges for dormitory construction. Sectarian colleges — do have a sectarian basis — may receive the loans, but colleges whose main purpose is the teaching of religion, such as theological seminaries, may not. The Administration's college classroom loan program would work the same way.

Hill-Burton Hospital Construction Act — Under this program the Government grants money to the states for hospital construction; the states then allocate the money to approved hospital projects. Hospitals built under the sponsorship of church groups are eligible; the only requirements is that any hospital benefited is non-profit. For 12 years, the Baptist Church took no part in the program on the grounds that the Hill-Burton grants violated the Church-State dividing line. The Baptists then in 1958 asked Congress to amend the Act to give them loans (as opposed to grants) for hospital construction. Congress concurred.

and its trade has been very valuable to those who engage in it. There are Britishers who assume that there is still money to be made in Red China.

But that is no reason why the United States should change its attitude which is that if Red China comes in, the United States goes out. In fact, it is astonishing how many Americans are counted each time this question comes to a vote — apparently many countries are assumed to vote for it.

The GI Bill — Money for the education of a veteran under the GI Bill was given to the school, and veterans were free to choose any school, including a religious seminary. (The only absolute prohibition in the law were that they could not use the money to take courses in dancing or bartending.)

Aid to Parochial Schools — Under two programs, the Government aids parochial elementary and secondary schools. They are:

National Defense Education Act — Title III of this Act, passed by Congress in 1958, authorized loans to private elementary and secondary schools for the purchase of equipment to improve the teaching of science and mathematics. Public schools were given grants for this purpose.

National School Lunch Act — Under this program, the Federal Government grants money to the states for the purchase of food for non-profit school lunches in public and private schools. The program is administered by the Department of Agriculture through the states' departments of education, because the constitutions of 28 states prohibit their state departments of education from dealing with private schools, the Agriculture Department has set up regional offices to which the private schools in these states apply directly.

None of these programs has been challenged in the courts on the Church-State issue and, with the exception of the Hill-Burton flurry, there has been almost no controversy about them on the religious issue.

What Supreme Court decisions there are on the issue of the use of public funds for aid to religious schools were based on state laws. Although the Justices often went beyond the immediate case to offer general opinions about the intent of the 1st Amendment, their decisions offer no clear guidelines on how the Court would rule on both existing and proposed federal programs.

An amendment for loans to private schools was rejected by the Senate last year by a 37-19 roll-call vote. In the House, where the issue is considered explosive enough to kill a general education bill, a similar amendment was ruled out of order on the grounds that it was not germane to the bill and a showdown vote was thus avoided. In the interest of getting any elementary and secondary school aid through Congress and of avoiding great embarrassment to President Kennedy, a Catholic, Administration officials and school bill sponsors are hoping that a showdown may again be avoided in 1961.

People have been asking me, "Whatever became of Jon Manheim?" Perhaps to refresh the memories of many, Jon Manheim is the Korean lad who was adopted a few years ago by Richard E. Manheim, former East Stroudsburg resident. Then the Korean War orphan was named Jon Sung Ho.

We're happy to relate that Jon has made the dean's list at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster. The "son" of Eastburg's Dick is a sophomore and is considered one of the better students at the Pennsylvania Institution of higher learning.

Jon, now 22, was first discovered at the age of 13 by Dick during Christmas time in Korea in 1952. The elder Manheim, although only slightly older than his "offspring" was serving a tour of duty with the United States Army when he first came in contact with the now young man.

A friendship started almost immediately and when Dick learned that Jon was sincere about education he pushed the idea to the fullest.

While a lot of red tape trailed from the Pacific to the United States, Dick pressed his ambition to be both father-brother to the young Korean.

Finally, like all good stories a happy ending came when Dick's parents, Rudy and Mrs. Manheim of East Stroudsburg formally adopted Jon.

The rest is history as Jon made a mark in academic work at Allentown High School, while Dick finished out his collegiate career at Muhlenberg, gaining specializing in languages.

Today Dick is teaching at New Milford High School, N. J., and plans this summer to take a sabbatical leave and go abroad to France to study for his master's degree.

Jon? Well, he'll continue his work at F&M and with each passing semester make his brother's keeper feel that one of the big niches of his youthful career was carved nine years ago in the hills of Korea.

White House Nursery

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington — President and Mrs. Kennedy are launching a unique innovation in the White House.

It's a nursery school for their three-year-old daughter Caroline and a half-dozen other youngsters her age. These classmates will be the children of friends and members of the White House staff.

The President and First Lady decided on this after she visited a nursery school at the Bi-Social Growth Center of the National Institutes of Health, world-famous for medical research, at nearby Bethesda, Md. Mrs. Kennedy was greatly impressed by what she saw and learned.

She was particularly impressed by Mr. Robert Waldron, who organized this experimental school and teaches there, with an assistant and the aid of the most advanced equipment, including closed-circuit television. The work of this small class of three-year-olds is being closely studied by educational experts.

Mrs. Waldron enthusiastically accepted an invitation to set up a similarly-equipped nursery school in the White House. Prior to joining the NIH project, she conducted a private nursery school.

For the First Family this new undertaking means a change in plans.

Shortly before the January 20 inauguration, Mrs. Kennedy telephoned an official of a cooperative nursery school near their home in historic Georgetown and inquired about the possibility of enrolling Caroline. The soon-to-be First Lady was assured her little daughter would be gladly welcomed.

Inside the White House — A member of the White House staff, working late one evening, was surprised to encounter the President and First Lady sauntering hand-in-hand about the executive mansion and carrying on a gay and animated conversation.

Inside You And Yours

Breaking Rhythm

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

You're too young to vote but already bothered by the change of life? Wouldn't you panic?

Not necessarily. Menstrual regularity resembles a delicately-balanced ballerina toe-dancing to the natural rhythm of a symphony of chemicals. The pituitary gland conducts this symphony.

And the brain's hypothalamus just above the pituitary relays orders from higher up. Any emotional upset can break this rhythmic harmony.

Jane fretted about school work and the folks back home. Soon her menstrual flow began to taper off.

Some Causes
A polyphasic figure slows both you and your menstrual cycle. So does scrawny malnutrition. Minor ailments and death-dealing disease can all break up that smooth monthly rhythm.

Menstrual flow begins when the pituitary suddenly orders all female hormones out of the circulation. Mature egg cells manufacture one of these hormones. And so, when a tough, leather-like covering seals mature egg cells inside the ovary, they continue to make hormones and menstrual flow stops — indefinitely.

Menstrual irregularity isn't harmful unless you worry about it. Of course if you want babies, you'll need that delicate balance.

Sedatives Useful

Jane talked over her worries with the college doctor. Nerve-soothing sedatives help, but tranquilizers are out. They soothe the hypothalamus, slowing the rhythm still further.

A slimming diet, a pinch of thyroid and medicine to cure your minor ills can retune your system. The surgeon can split open that leather-like covering, freeing egg cells to leave.

May Start Again

The doctor may prescribe different hormones to imitate nature. When you stop taking these hormones at the end of the month, menstrual flow begins. After a few doctor-directed reversals, the pituitary often starts conducting again.

Most menstrual irregularity stems from little ills that throw your system just a wee bit off balance. Jane cured her "change of life" with a few short talks.

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

President Judge Fred W. Davis ordered all gambling devices removed from the clubs of Monroe County.

Members of the Poccono Grange in Tannersville urged for traffic to be changed on Route 611 in Tannersville. One of the requests was to have a no passing zone at the intersection of Route 611 and the road to Readers. This area is near the Poccono Township School.

The recently held paper drive by the Monroe county SPCA added $100 to its fund to build a shelter for animals.

The meter receipts in East Stroudsburg were $88.65 for the month of February, 1951. This was a slight increase over the same month of the previous year.

20 Years Ago

Stroudsburg Lions Club held its annual charter night celebration in the ballroom of the Penn-Stroud Hotel. Donald Gilpin was chairman of the celebration.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton was appointed pastor of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church. He succeeded Rev. Dr. Wayne Channell who retired.

Monroe County Commissioners and members of Stroudsburg Borough Council met to discuss the proposed reconstruction of the Lackawanna Trail.

How many remember when Harold and Miles Bossard entered into the grocery store business? It was in 1921 that they opened their store on West Main St., near the Poccono Creek bridge.

Veteran's Guide

Q—I read that the president had requested that GI insurance dividends be paid early this year. The anniversary date of my policy is in October. When may I expect my dividend this year?

A—It is impossible to give a definite date for payment on a particular policy. However, the VA's target date for completing all 1961 dividend payments is sometime in March, and the VA hopes to complete payments by March 19.

Q—When I file a claim with VA and allege service-connection for the disability, will VA give me a free medical examination?

Unsound Proposal

The Federal Communications Commission will ask Congress to pass a law requiring all new TV sets to be equipped to receive the relatively unused UHF Channels 14 through 83. If this law passes, your next TV set will have such a tuner, and you will pay for it.

TV makers say the government's $10 estimate of the extra cost per set would be nearer $25.

The UHF Channels 2 through 13 which probably exist on your sets were the original ones allocated. The FCC had underestimated grossly the demand for TV channels and set aside too few. When the demand of broadcasters and viewers became immense, the FCC set aside an additional block of channels. But millions of TV sets already were in use which would last for years, and which would not receive the new channels.

Some broadcasters went broke on the UHF channels for lack of listeners.

Now, all this time any viewer who wanted to could buy a converter. He also could order the extra channels on his new set. Few did, although a converter sells today for as little as $15.

Because TV owners shunned the new channels ("why spend $15 to see more cowboy shows?") the FCC now proposes to force the channels upon them. You may, therefore, have to pay $25 extra for your next set. Of course, there may be no such channel in your area, and there may be none during the life of your set. If there is, it may be a day-time-only educational station that you won't be home to watch.

Or the extra cost may change your mind (and the minds of many others) about buying a new set at all, which is hardly a desirable result when sales and employment are down.

Not too long ago, FM radio stations had too few listeners to operate profitably, too. They made people want to go out and buy FM sets by contriving new kinds of programs not available on regular stations, and now are enjoying a boom. The same thing might have happened with channels 14-83.

The FCC's solution will mean money out of every TV buyer's pocket by compulsion and therefore is not in the public interest.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Needed Legislation

The proposal to compel registration of, and reports by, legislative lobbyists in Pennsylvania is an "administration bill" that it was submitted by the Lawrence administration as a part of its program, but it deserves attention not on that basis, but as a piece of legislation needed by the people of the state.

Over a period of a quarter of a century efforts have been made from time to time to get the activities of lobbyists placed on public record, so that the people of the state could read and judge for themselves — but they have all failed, for one reason or another. The delay in enacting such a law, it seems to us, has gone on long enough.

The pending measure would require that all persons engaged in trying to influence legislation register with the secretary of the Senate and the chief clerk of the House, giving the name and address of the person in whose interest he appears, by whom he will be paid, and how he will be paid. He must, in addition, file regular reports showing the total of contributions he has received, the names of persons contributing $400 or more, and the names of persons to whom he has paid $10 or more.

Exempted from the provisions of the act would be political committees, news-men insofar as they limit themselves to articles for publication, officers and employees of the commonwealth and persons who merely appear before a committee or public hearing relative to legislation. These exceptions would seem to eliminate any possibility of the law working a hardship on anyone — perhaps they even go too far by exempting commonwealth officials and employees.

The information that the bill calls for, we believe, is the bare minimum to which the people of the state are entitled, and the present legislature should face up to the problem with a greater degree of responsibility than has been manifested in the past, and place the law on the statute books with as little delay as practical.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Red China Again

Each year, when the General Assembly of the United Nations meets, Soviet Russia more or less strenuously proposes to have Red China seated in the United Nations. The United States always opposes this effort — also more or less strenuously depending upon the state of affairs.

It has not always been clear that Soviet Russia really desired its great ally to sit in this international council, particularly in recent years when Red China has become a competitor rather than a collaborator of the Kremlin for leadership in the growing Soviet Union.

At any rate, the years have passed and Red China has not been admitted. The first nation to wage war against the United Nations has no place within the United Nations. The incongruity seems clear to all who believe in world order.

Nevertheless, Great Britain, on the plea of realism, favors the admission of Red China. The British are obsessed with the notion that they can achieve a split between Red China and Soviet Russia.

The basis for their assumption is the growing antagonism between the two countries, an antagonism which is ideological within the Communist faith but which does not include the prospect of the Marxist-Leninist Revolution being made to fail in the interest of colonialists and capitalists.

There is another factor in the British anxiety to recognize Red China and that is the prospect of trade. China was, once upon a time, one of Great Britain's best customers. The ports of Hongkong, Shanghai, Tientsin and along the Yangtze River, Kiangsi and Hankow, were British dominated.

The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank dominated the economic life of China. Jardine Matheson, one of the greatest trading firms in the world, was the principal industrial, mercantile and shipping business in the Far East. The British-American Tobacco Company supplied a nation with cigarettes when that became the national substitute for opium.

It was good to be a Britisher in China in the good old days. It meant power, authority and money. It meant being supported by the mightiest navy on Earth. It meant being part of an elite.

Then came 1925. It was the year of the great anti-British boycott which started because a Sikh policeman shot a Chinese worker. That was the excuse just as every great historic event has an excuse and a reality.

What actually had happened was that the Kuomintang, the Nationalist Party of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, had formed an alliance with Soviet Russia. The Russians sent about 100 advisors and technicians to Canton to help Sun. At the head of them were Michael Borodin and General Galens-Blucher.

Borodin worked directly under Karl Radek in the Third International. He was a lawyer from Chicago, brilliant in his ability to carry out a program among a people whom he hardly knew. Dr. Sun died on March 12, 1925, but that did not affect the situation. The Revolutionary Army led by Chiang Kai-shek and General Galens-Blucher marched up the Yangtze Valley. Meanwhile, Borodin built the boycott movement against the British, a movement which so completely disturbed China that it broke down resistance to anything that the combination of the Kuomintang and the Communists tried to do.

Li Li-shan, a Communist labor leader, arranged for strikes in factories all over the country. Chen Tu-shiu, who was then the leader of the Communist Party, worked in the open against the British.

Not only was the boycott effective but the British lost most of their concessions in China. For a short time thereafter the British regained some of their trade but in 1931, Japan made war upon China, a war which continued until 1945, when China, exhausted, mistreated by her allies, betrayed by her friends, had to continue battling against the Chinese Communists who, with the assistance of Soviet Russia, used the war to build their strength.

There is no basis for assuming that the British can regain this trade. Nevertheless, Hongkong, which Red China could have taken, remained a British port and its trade has been very valuable to those who engage in it. There are Britishers who assume that there is still money to be made in Red China.

But that is no reason why the United States should change its attitude which is that if Red China comes in, the United States goes out. In fact, it is astonishing how many abstentions are counted each time this question comes to a vote — apparently many countries are ashamed to vote for it.

Reports From Congress

Knotty Issue

Washington — President Kennedy's education program, presented to Congress in February, is running full blast into the emotion-ridden controversy over federal aid to parochial schools.

Participants on all sides of the issue base their arguments on what they believe the Constitution allows or forbids. While all agree that the 1st Amendment of the Constitution requires that somewhere a line must be drawn between Church and State, the precise application of this line to specific legislative proposals is still a matter of heated argument.

The President's program calls for grants to public elementary and secondary schools, but omits either grants or loans for parochial schools. The President has said "aid" to parochial schools is clearly unconstitutional. However, Mr. Kennedy is requesting low-interest loans, for construction of classrooms, to both public and private, sectarian colleges. His proposed college scholarship program would make grants to both the student and his college, public or private.

Leading American Catholics say they will oppose the program if it does not include loans to parochial schools. While not asking for grants, the Catholic hierarchy says long-term, low-interest loans would be "strictly within the framework of the Constitution" and it would be discriminatory not to provide them.

Existing legislation — Loans to parochial schools and sectarian colleges are available under several existing programs. Opponents of further aid to parochial elementary and secondary schools contend that the existing programs do not aid religion but serve some other purpose, such as rewarding war veterans, or promoting health and welfare. Against this, some supporters of the Catholic position contend there is ample precedent for loans to parochial schools, and the issue is more political than constitutional.

The major existing programs are as follows:

College housing program — Since 1950, the Government has granted low-interest loans to public and private colleges for dormitory construction. Sectarian colleges — and most non-public colleges do have a sectarian basis — may receive the loans, but colleges whose main purpose is the teaching of religion, such as theological seminaries, may not. The Administration's college classroom loan program would work the same way.

Hill-Burton Hospital Construction Act — Under this program the Government grants money to the states for hospital construction; the states then allocate the money to approved hospital projects. Hospitals built under the sponsorship of church groups are eligible; the only requirements is that any hospital benefitted is non-profit. For 12 years, the Baptist Church took no part in the program on the grounds that the Hill-Burton grants violated the Church-State dividing line. The Baptists then in 1953 asked Congress to amend the Act to give them loans (as

Off The Record

People have been asking me, "Whatever became of Jon Manheim?"

Perhaps to refresh the memories of many, Jon Manheim is the Korean lad who was adopted a few years ago by Richard E. Manheim, former East Stroudsburg resident. Then the Korean War orphan was named Jon Surg Ho.

We're happy to relate that Jon has made the dean's list at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster. The "son" of Eastburg's Dick is a sophomore and is considered one of the better students at the Pennsylvania institution of higher learning.

Jon, now 22, was first discovered at the age of 13 by Dick during Christmas time in Korea in 1952. The elder Manheim, although only slightly older than his "offspring" was serving a tour of duty with the United States Army when he first came in contact with the now young man.

A friendship started almost immediately and when Dick learned that Jon was sincere about education he pushed the idea to the fullest.

While a lot of red tape trailed from the Pacific to the United States, Dick pressed his ambition to be both father-brother to the young Korean.

Finally, like all good stories a happy ending came when Dick's parents, Rudy and Mrs. Manheim of East Stroudsburg formally adopted Jon.

The rest is history as Jon made a mark in academic work at Allentown High School, while Dick finished out his collegiate career at Muhlenberg, gaining specializing in languages.

Today Dick is teaching at New Milford High School, N. J., and plans this summer to take a sabbatical leave and go abroad to France to study for his master's degree.

Jon? Well, he'll continue his work at F&M and with each passing semester make his brother's keeper feel that one of the big niche's of his youthful career was carved nine years ago in the hills of Korea.

The Allen-Scott Report

White House Nursery

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington — President and Mrs. Kennedy are launching a unique innovation in the White House.

It's a nursery school for their three-year-old daughter Caroline and a half-dozen other youngsters her age. These classmates will be the children of friends and members of the White House staff.

The President and First Lady decided on this after she visited a nursery school at the Bi-Social Growth Center of the National Institutes of Health, world-famous for medical research, at nearby Bethesda, Md. Mrs. Kennedy was greatly impressed by what she saw and learned.

She was particularly impressed by Mr. Robert Waldron, who organized this experimental school and teaches there, with an assistant and the aid of the most advanced equipment, including closed-circuit television. The work of this small class of three-year-olds is being closely studied by educational experts.

Mrs. Waldron enthusiastically accepted an invitation to set up a similarly-equipped nursery school in the White House. Prior to joining the NIH project, she conducted a private nursery school.

For the First Family this new undertaking means a change in plans.

Shortly before the January 20 inauguration, Mrs. Kennedy telephoned an official of a cooperative nursery school near their home in historic Georgetown and inquired about the possibility of enrolling Caroline. The soon-to-be First Lady was assured her little daughter would be gladly welcomed.

Inside the White House — A member of the White House staff, working late one evening, was surprised to encounter the President and First Lady sauntering hand-in-hand about the executive mansion and carrying on a gay and animated conversation . . . already have made it evident they prefer small dinner parties, of four to eight guests, rather than big social affairs. A certain number of the latter are unavoidable, but it is the Kennedy's intention to hold them to a minimum.

Mrs. Kennedy is solely responsible for the emphatic refusal to allow cameramen to take pictures of her riding her favorite horse. The photographers appealed to press secretary Salinger, who discussed it with the President. But he would not intervene, saying the matter was wholly up to the First Lady. "She is entitled to some privacy," he remarked.

Mrs. Kennedy has declined the honorary chairmanship of a National Committee for the Arts proffered by Rep. Carroll Kearns (R., Pa.). In a cordial personal letter, she explained, "I could not have greater sympathy with your plan, I warmly share your desire to make Washington a world cultural center, and I hope to contribute in every way I can to the elevation of the arts in our country. But I fear I am not too effective on committees, and have always felt that one should not go on committees if not prepared to be a working member. It therefore seems to me that I can help our joint cause best by doing the things I can as an individual and as the wife of the President."

The President has added honey to the breakfast menu of his weekly meetings with the Democratic congressional leaders. He did this after learning that Speaker Sam Rayburn always eats honey at breakfast.

The Ladies — Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, wife of the Vice President, unlike her predecessor, does not use her husband's official car to attend social engagements. The Second Lady drives her own car to the numerous events she attends . . . Mrs. Parker West, who has given receptions for Army Chiefs of Staff for 45 years, entertained for General George Decker, and as is her unbroken rule did not serve alcoholic beverages. As always, this traditional party was a tea, and only tea and coffee were served. But a large crowd attended, notwithstanding . . . Mrs. Henry Labouisse, wife of the new director of the International Cooperation Administration (foreign aid), is the daughter of the late famed Marie Curie, who twice won the Nobel Prize for work in radium and radioactive materials. As a girl 40 years ago, Mrs. Labouisse first visited Washington when her mother was presented with a 100,000 gram of radium by President Harding in a White House ceremony. A new edition of Mrs. Labouisse's 1937 biography of her famous mother will be published in the spring.

Inside You And Yours

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

You're too young to vote but already bothered by the change of life? Wouldn't you panic?

Not necessarily. Menstrual irregularity resembles a delicately-balanced ballerina toe-dancing to the natural rhythm of a symphony of chemicals. The pituitary gland conducts this symphony.

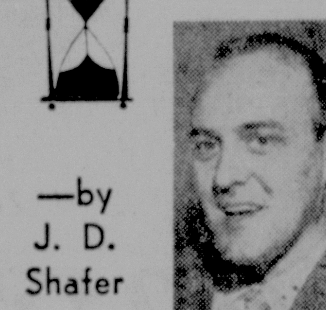

And the brain's hypothalamus just above the pituitary relays orders from higher up. Any emotional upset can break this rhythmic harmony.

Jane fretted about school work and the folks back home. Soon her menstrual flow began to taper off.

Some Causes
A polyphyl figure slows both you and your menstrual cycle. So does scrawny malnutrition. Minor ailments and death-dealing disease can all break up that smooth monthly rhythm.

Pair Held In Theft Of Metal

RAYMOND G. Sigmund, 28, of Tobyhanna Rd. 1, and Arden E. Wilde, 33, of Reeder, pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary before Justice of the Peace Emma B. Merwin of Mount Pocono.

They were ordered held in Monroe County Jail for court action without bail.

Sigmund was employed as a laborer at a milk ranch, near Mount Pocono, operated by Stanley Burnfield.

State Police of Mount Pocono, the arresting officers, said the pair took 12,000 pounds of brass, 1,700 pounds of copper and 990 pounds of insulated field copper. The owner of the scrap metal was Seymour Stahler, Clarks Summit.

The metal was allegedly sold in Scranton for $1,585.17.

The plane had no radio and no skis for landing on snow. For the two hour flight, the pilot had gas for about two hours and 40 minutes of flying.

The FAA felt the plane might crash upon landing on the snow-covered strip at Mt. Pocono and since the airport would probably be unattended at that time of day asked State Police to stand by.

The Mt. Pocono barracks was directed to send inspectors to the airport to check landing conditions and stand by. Fern Ridge and Stroudsburg barracks were asked to maintain a lookout for the plane.

About 9 a.m., the Wyoming barracks cancelled the alert. The reason: The pilot never left Long Island.

Confusion Over Plight Of Pilot

CONFUSION ran rampant yesterday over the case of the missing pilot.

Involved were State Police at at least four sub-stations and Federal aviation officials.

It started about 8 a.m. when a representative of the Federal Aviation Agency's flight service station at Avoca called the Wyoming barracks.

His story was that a pilot flying a Piper Cub J-3 filed a flight plan calling for a takeoff from Grumman Field, Long Island, with an estimated time of arrival at Mt. Pocono Airport of 8:30 a.m.

No Radio

The plane had no radio and no skis for landing on snow. For the two hour flight, the pilot had gas for about two hours and 40 minutes of flying.

The FAA felt the plane might crash upon landing on the snow-covered strip at Mt. Pocono and since the airport would probably be unattended at that time of day asked State Police to stand by.

The Mt. Pocono barracks was directed to send inspectors to the airport to check landing conditions and stand by. Fern Ridge and Stroudsburg barracks were asked to maintain a lookout for the plane.

About 9 a.m., the Wyoming barracks cancelled the alert. The reason: The pilot never left Long Island.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

"She's finally flipped" was my son's reaction when he saw how I left the car the night before — or rather in the early hours of the morning. There was an ironing board sticking out from under one side, and a red bench, propped up with a pitchfork sticking out from the other.

The explanation was more reasonable than it looked. I tried to tell him. Disgusted at getting stuck on the hill in the snow in March — practically Spring, mind you — I just left it there. But wary of leaving it on a slippery slope, I'd propped it up with the most easily accessible material.

However, I did have to admit that, except to some exceptional people, I probably would take a little getting used to. Fortunately, I know a lot of exceptional people. Not whacky, you understand — just adjustable.

Take for instance, Regina O'Neill. In the course of the Dutch Treat dinner, somehow the conversation turned to Paris where, for her, one of the highlights of her stay was a tour of the sewers of Paris. For many, fascinated by Jean Valjean's adventures there in "Les Misérables," the fact that she should be curious about them is understandable enough.

What sets her apart is the fact, that investigated, found that there really are conducted tours of the sewers there — and took one — in rubber boots drawn by men in hipboots whose mortality rate is very high, she learned, because of rat bites.

It was smelly and dark and not a trip she'd want to take twice she admitted, but at least she went somewhere she wanted to go and saw something besides what people tell you to look at.

Part of the charm of the Dutch Treat dinners is the changing round of dinner partners — usually people you don't have a chance to talk to much at other times. The other part, of course, are the speakers. Hensleigh Wedgwood consistently underplayed his material: tossing in really startling references as casually it took quick listening to catch them: Charles Darwin as a collateral ancestor; or that of Chinese clay; or Josiah's "borrowing" Catherine the Great's tableware for a whole year as a promotion stunt.

He delivered his wry jokes with such a curve, that some of them went right by the audience altogether — and they say the English are slow reactors! The only time he feels homesick for England, he confessed, was when he had a letter from his sister telling of a walk through the Spring woods of Somerset gathering armloads of daffodils.

Great pitchforks and ironing boards, that thought makes me homesick, too.

Newfoundland Scouts To Church Sunday

Newfoundland — The Brownies of Troop 7 and the Girl Scouts of Troop One will meet at 10:40 a.m. on Sunday, March 12, at Southern Wayne Joint School to go together to Sterling Methodist Church in observance of Girl Scout Sunday. During the meeting of the Brownies at the school this week, Mrs. Emil Wohlfart discussed Girl Scout Week in detail, and noted that a display window will be set up containing the best sewing kits and scrapbooks, as well as the dish gardens that still show some signs of life. There will be a United Nations flag display also made by the girls.

It was decided that the scrapbooks, which were made by the girls on any subject they chose, will be presented to an area hospital.

Mrs. Wohlfart explained the process of blowing eggs for Easter, and the girls played games including the Elephant Dance, the Duck Song, and Who Is It?

Wedgewood Pottery Through Two Centuries At Dutch Treat Dinner

A firm reordering Number 12 from its catalogue may not be unusual except when Number 1 in that catalogue dates back to pre-revolutionary times. Hensleigh C. Wedgwood, a member of the sixth generation of the famous pottery family in speaking to the Dutch Treat Club on Thursday night at the Penn-Stroud could show modern pieces still being ordered from designs starting from 1759.

That's when Josiah Wedgwood set out to discover an earthenware that would be usable in the middle class homes of England where wood and metal bowls were common. Hensleigh Wedgwood quoted from his experiment book and showed pictures of the results of those trials.

His illustrated lecture began with pictures of the crude earthenware pots of Staffordshire, decorated with "slip," that is other clay applied on the basic pottery which "ran" when it was fired. His pictures illustrated marble ware, and agate ware, and Wedgwood's early experiment with self-glaze and the use of metallic oxides in glazes for color.

His great contribution was creamware — a white pottery which revolutionized the tableware not only of England but also the continent and was imported to the American colonies. Josiah Wedgwood was a lover of the classic Greek and Roman art and his early designs have a classic simplicity which make them contemporary in shape and feeling, he pointed out. In his slides, he pointed out the influence of Etruscan discoveries in the black basalt vases and designs; and of the cameo-like quality of his jasper ware, white classical figures on pastel backgrounds which have become synonymous with the Wedgwood name.

He also illustrated how the pottery was used in decorative pieces: jewelry, medallions, campaign buttons, and chateaus.

STROUDSBURG, PA.

Gayelord Hauser, whose diets and fitness programs have been followed by such world renowned beauties as Greta Garbo, is writing a series of articles for the New York Journal and American, and one was devoted to skin and its care. Dr. Hauser had this word of encouragement for all women: if your complexion of today does not suit you, do something about it instantly and even tomorrow you will be building a new skin.

I gather from his article that he regrets the use of harsh soaps which are such a major part of the average woman's cleanliness and beauty program. The early Romans popularized soap, he says, having learned to make it from some of their captive barbarians. But Mr. Hauser himself holds with the ancient Greeks who cared for their skin with gentle oil.

As he points out, the Greeks were very proud of their bodies, and gave them the utmost care. But the skin was not subjected to anything such as soap. It was oiled and rubbed . . . and then a scraper was used to remove excess oil and the dry, scaly skin that had sloughed off. This method left just enough oil on the skin to lubricate it, or to be absorbed. The article dispels one false impression most of us have . . . namely, that skin cannot be nourished from the outside. Our diet nourishes our skin . . . the treatment we give it on the surface protects it from the elements, but does not actually feed it.

The Hauser rules for skin care are simple: cleansing . . . retaining the acid balance by a vinegar cream . . . and using plenty of oils and your favorite creams. It sounds simple, doesn't it? But the encouraging part about it is that it's never too late to begin a beauty regime to make your complexion lovelier. If it's creams you need, heaven knows we have dozens of them at Wyckoff's, and we are happy that an authority such as Dr. Hauser recognizes their importance.

I have quoted Dorothy Draper in this column on numerous occasions, and here I go referring to her again!

Many a time in her articles she has suggested that one use a bowl of crabapples (fake or real) on a coffee table to brighten a room. Now, Wyckoff's makes it easy to do just that. We have just received a shipment of some perfectly glorious artificial fruit . . . pineapples at 2.50; apples, pears, bannans, all kinds of grapes (even AQUA ones), cunquots, strawberries, and pomegranates at 59, 69, and 89¢. This is just what I've been waiting for to fill that big wooden bowl my son brought me from Haiti . . . and it will look scrumptious on my coffee table.

Which reminds me . . . maybe you'd like to know what my "coffee table" really is. It's my old walnut cedar chest, but Elmer Goucher just refinished giving it a rich cherry sheen. For years this chest was useless to me, occupying a long closet and piled high with boxes and bundles. It was a pretty chest when new . . . and it was new when I was 18, but the years had worked havoc. Now, thanks to Elmer, it's a thing of beauty once again, and it's right where it can be seen and used. (Incidentally, this idea too, is one that Mrs. Draper approves. Funny, but I can always learn something by reading . . . and whatever I read I'll gladly pass along, so that maybe you'll learn something once in awhile from reading me!)

Aside to Mrs. George Werkheiser: Thank you for calling when I was away. If you are still in possession of the newspaper, I would be most appreciative.

A.B. Wyckoff

STROUDSBURG, PA.

Gaylord Hauser, whose diets and fitness programs have been followed by such world renowned beauties as Greta Garbo, is writing a series of articles for the New York Journal and American, and one was devoted to skin and its care. Dr. Hauser had this word of encouragement for all women: if your complexion of today does not suit you, do something about it instantly and even tomorrow you will be building a new skin.

I gather from his article that he regrets the use of harsh soaps which are such a major part of the average woman's cleanliness and beauty program. The early Romans popularized soap, he says, having learned to make it from some of their captive barbarians. But Mr. Hauser himself holds with the ancient Greeks who cared for their skin with gentle oil.

As he points out, the Greeks were very proud of their bodies, and gave them the utmost care. But the skin was not subjected to anything such as soap. It was oiled and rubbed . . . and then a scraper was used to remove excess oil and the dry, scaly skin that had sloughed off. This method left just enough oil on the skin to lubricate it, or to be absorbed. The article dispels one false impression most of us have . . . namely, that skin cannot be nourished from the outside. Our diet nourishes our skin . . . the treatment we give it on the surface protects it from the elements, but does not actually feed it.

The Hauser rules for skin care are simple: cleansing . . . retaining the acid balance by a vinegar cream . . . and using plenty of oils and your favorite creams. It sounds simple, doesn't it? But the encouraging part about it is that it's never too late to begin a beauty regime to make your complexion lovelier. If it's creams you need, heaven knows we have dozens of them at Wyckoff's, and we are happy that an authority such as Dr. Hauser recognizes their importance.

I have quoted Dorothy Draper in this column on numerous occasions, and here I go referring to her again!

Many a time in her articles (she has suggested that one use a bowl of crabapples (fake or real) on a coffee table to brighten a room. Now, Wyckoff's makes it easy to do just that. We have just received a shipment of some perfectly glorious artificial fruit . . . pineapples at 2.50; apples, pears, bananas, all kinds of grapes (even AQUA ones), cumquots, strawberries, and pomegranates at 59, 69, and 89¢. This is just what I've been waiting for to fill that big wooden bowl my son brought me from Haiti . . . and it will look scrumptious on my coffee table.

Which reminds me . . . maybe you'd like to know what my "coffee table" really is. It's my old walnut cedar chest, but Elmer Goucher just refinished giving it a rich cherry sheen. For years this chest was useless to me, occupying a long closet and piled high with boxes and bundles. It was a pretty chest when new . . . and it was new when I was 18, but the years had worked havoc. Now, thanks to Elmer, it's a thing of beauty once again, and it's right where it can be seen and used. (Incidentally, this idea too, is one that Mrs. Draper approves. Funny, but I can always learn something by reading . . . and whatever I read I'll gladly pass along, so that maybe you'll learn something once in awhile from reading me!)

Aside to Mrs. George Werkheiser: Thank you for calling when I was away. If you are still in possession of the newspaper, I would be most appreciative.

Cresco Doctor Says Rights Violated

THE $20,000-a-year umpire for the Anthracite Board of Conciliation this week charged that his constitutional rights under the equal protection clause and the due-process clause were violated when he was indicted last year for income tax evasion. Dr. Thomas E. Larkin, of Cresco, submitted a brief of argument in support of his move to quash an indictment charging him with willful evasion of more than $1,900 in income taxes.

Through former U. S. Attorney J. Julius Levy, Dr. Larkin also filed an affidavit in support of his motion to dismiss the indictment. In the affidavit, Dr. Larkin contended that he had no knowledge at any time of the investigation of his tax returns, "and has been advised and believes that none of the administrative steps were taken in his case."

Dr. Larkin further contended that he was not advised and had no knowledge that he or his representatives could request a conference or hearing, and present his side of the case.

He contended that the first knowledge he had that his tax returns were under investigation or that the matter was presented to the grand jury for its action, was when a newspaper reported that he had been indicted.

The affidavit further stated that Dr. Larkin is "further advised that it is the established policy of the Treasury Department ment as well as the Department of Justice to afford the taxpayer reasonable opportunity for conferences with the agents and officials who are investigating the case, beginning at the first stage of the investigation, through the regional counsel's office with the chief of the penal division, the chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Service and the commissioner in Washington to the Department of Justice and to the U. S. attorney."

None of these administrative steps was taken in his case, Dr. Larkin claims. In his brief of arguments, Dr. Larkin contends the indictment does not state facts sufficient to constitute an offense against the government.

"The defendant was denied the due process of law and rules and regulations of the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice in that he was not advised that criminal proceedings would be taken against him or given an opportunity to answer or excuse the charge against him," the brief reads.

Brief States

The brief says that Dr. Larkin was summoned by written subpoena (no authority for this) to appear at the U. S. attorney's office and the next knowledge he had that he was indicted for tax fraud came from the press report.

In asking that the indictment be dismissed, Dr. Larkin claims his constitutional rights were violated. "The rights of all persons must rest upon the same rule under similar circumstances," the brief continued. As to conferences in connection with tax investigations, Dr. Larkin's brief said: "Many of these conferences result in the taxpayer being completely exonerated of criminal and even tax liability."

SW Students Take Merit Exams

NEWFOUNDLAND — Thirty-eight students at Southern Wayne Joint School participated in National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Tests this week, according to Supervising Principal Leland Cramer. The qualifying test is a three-hour examination of educational development. The test is the first step in the seventh year Merit Scholarships provided by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and by organizations.

The number of scholarships awarded in any year depends upon the extent of sponsor participation. Last year, 831 were awarded. There are 3,132 merit scholars attending 391 colleges this year.

The scores of the thirty-eight SWJS students who took the test will be reported to the school before the end of the Spring semester in time for use by class advisers. The scores are used in many schools to help students make decisions about college enrollment and fields of study. Many students who do not expect to win a scholarship take the test in order to learn more about their individual strengths and weaknesses. In the areas measured by the test, Semi-finalists will be the highest scorers in each State, and will be named early in the Fall of 1961. Each will be asked to take a second examination. Those who repeat their high performance will become finalists in the merit program. Winners of scholarships will be selected from this group on the basis of school records and recommendations, test scores, extracurricular activities, leadership ability and accomplishments outside the classroom. The scholarships are based upon financial need. The minimum award is $100 and the maximum is $1,500.

'Navy' Getting Army Workout

THE NAVY song "Anchors Aweigh" is getting a workout at the Army Signal Corps depot in Tobyhanna these days.

The song is meant for Coast Guardsman ET2 Billy Cunningham, who is studying crystal operations in the depot's maintenance division. The first Coast Guardsman to train at the local Army post, he has come in for some good-natured kidding from both soldiers and civilians.

Every so often someone passing by will hum the "Anchors Aweigh" tune.

"At first," he says, "I got a little annoyed. But they really are a wonderful bunch. Everyone has been very helpful."

An electronics technician second class, Cunningham is on a six-weeks assignment to learn all he can about the art of crystal fabrications.

Crystals are the small, thin wafers made of quartz which generate frequencies in communications sets.

"The Coast Guard Supply Center in Brooklyn, N. Y., where Cunningham is stationed, is responsible for supplying and maintaining a large portion of the East Coast's ship-to-shore communications. On his return, they hope to improve this service."

The 21-year-old Coast Guardsman is well schooled in electronics. He is a graduate of the Cass Technical High School in Detroit, Mich., where he studied physics and other science subjects.

Repair, Renovate

After basic training at Cape May, N. J., he was sent to Coast Guard Electronics School in Groton, Conn. His job at the Brooklyn supply point, where he has been stationed about a year, is to repair and renovate all types of electronic equipment.

Cunningham thought he knew something about crystal making before he arrived at the depot. "But this operation has opened my eyes," he says. "I had no idea crystals had to be so precise."

Cunningham's work has taken him to Coast Guard vessels in port or to nearby lighthouses. But in his three years in the service he has yet to take a cruise.

"I'm a landlubbing sailor," he says. "And I like it that way." Being in port every night allows him to lead a normal home life with his wife and six-month-old son.

At the depot, Cunningham has been staying at the enlisted men's barracks and eating in the troop mess hall.

"After Coast Guard blue," he says, "I had to get used to all the olive green. Especially the blankets — but I sleep just as good."

He admits that, surrounded by soldiers all day, he sometimes forgets he is in the Coast Guard. Just about then, someone will hum the "Anchors Aweigh" tune. That always reminds him.

Regards Israel 'Yank Colony'

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Frost, 88, the poet, said yesterday he regards Israel as "an American colony" — but only in the sense that the people there "have so much of the American people's spirit."

Frost made the comment before leaving by plane for Israel to lecture on American culture and civilization at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

The white-haired Frost, who recited a poem of his own at President Kennedy's inauguration, told newsmen he would spend only 10 days in Israel because "I've got America to attend to."

Taxpayer Is Responsible For All Facts, Figures

EACH Federal income taxpayer is responsible for the facts and figures entered in the return he signs, even if it is prepared with the assistance of an Internal Revenue Service Agent, acting District Director John H. Rauon, Jr., said yesterday.

"In advising taxpayers of this responsibility," Rauon said, "we must remind them that they are responsible under law for all entries and all supporting documents in their returns no matter who prepares it."

Author Mailer Pleads Guilty

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Norman Mailer pleaded guilty yesterday to a simple assault charge in the stabbing of his wife during a wild party at their apartment Nov. 30.

He pleaded to a misdemeanor charge to spare his wife and child the publicity of a trial on more serious charges (it was understood). The state agreed to deal with General Sessions Judge Mitchell P. Schweitzer scheduled sentencing for April 28.

Mailer, 37, could be put in jail for an indeterminate sentence of up to three years.

By his plea, he avoided a more serious charge of felonious assault, brought against him by a grand jury. This is a felony carrying a maximum sentence of 5 to 10 years in prison.

The state prosecuted Mailer after his wife, Adele, 35, refused to sign a complaint against him. She said she was drunk at the time and did not remember being stabbed with a penknife. Her wounds were not serious.

Cresco Doctor Says Rights Violated

THE $20,000-a-year umpire for the Anthracite Board of Conciliation this week charged that his constitutional rights under the equal protection clause and the due-process clause were violated when he was indicted last year for income tax evasion.

Dr. Thomas E. Larkin, of Cresco, submitted a brief of argument in support of his move to quash an indictment charging him with willful evasion of more than $1,900 in income taxes.

Through former U. S. Attorney J. Julius Levy, Dr. Larkin also filed an affidavit in support of his motion to dismiss the indictment.

In the affidavit, Dr. Larkin contended that he had no knowledge at any time of the investigation of his tax returns, "and has been advised and believes that none of the administrative steps were taken in his case."

Wasn't Advised

Dr. Larkin further contended that he was not advised and had no knowledge that he or his representatives could request a conference or hearing and present his side of the case.

He contended that the first knowledge he had that his tax returns were under investigation or that the matter was presented to the grand jury for its action, was when a newspaper reported that he had been indicted.

The affidavit further stated that Dr. Larkin is "further advised that it is the established policy of the Treasury Department

SW Students Take Merit Exams

NEWFOUNDLAND — Thirty-eight students at Southern Wayne Joint School participated in National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Tests this week, according to Supervising Principal Leland Cramer.

The qualifying test is a three-hour examination of educational development. The test is the first step in the seventh year Merit Scholarships provided by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and by organizations.

The number of scholarships awarded in any year depends upon the extent of sponsor participation. Last year, 831 were awarded. There are 1,132 merit scholars attending 391 colleges this year.

The scores of the thirty-eight SWJS students who took the test will be reported to the school before the end of the Spring semester in time for use by class advisers. The scores are used in many schools to help students make decisions about college enrollment and fields of study. Many students who do not expect to win a scholarship take the test in order to learn more about their individual strengths and weaknesses in the areas measured by the test.

Semi-finalists will be the highest scorers in each State, and will be named early in the Fall of 1961. Each will be asked to take a second examination. Those who repeat their high performance will become finalists in the merit program. Winners of scholarships will be selected from this group on the basis of school records and recommendations, test scores, extracurricular activities, leadership ability and accomplishments outside the classroom.

The scholarships are based upon financial need. The minimum award is $100 and the maximum is $1,500.

(U. S. Army Photo by John Mielicki)

'Navy' Getting Army Workout

THE NAVY song "Anchors Aweigh" is getting a workout at the Army Signal Corps depot in Tobyhanna these days.

The song is meant for Coast Guardsman ET2 Billy Cunningham, who is studying crystal operations in the depot's Maintenance division. The first Coast Guardsman to train at the local Army post, he has come in for some good-natured kidding from both soldiers and civilians.

Every so often someone passing by will hum the "Anchors Aweigh" tune.

"At first," he says, "I got a little annoyed. But they really are a wonderful bunch. Every-one has been very helpful."

An electronics technician second class, Cunningham is on a six-weeks assignment to learn all he can about the art of crystal fabrications.

Crystals are the small, thin wafers made of quartz which generate frequencies in communications sets.

The Coast Guard Supply Center in Brooklyn, N.Y., where Cunningham is stationed, is responsible for supplying and maintaining a large portion of the East Coast's ship-to-shore communications. On his return, they hope to improve this service.

The 21-year-old Coast Guardsman is well schooled in electronics. He is a graduate of the Cass Technical High School in Detroit, Mich., where he studied physics and other science subjects.

Repair, Renovate

After basic training at Cape May, N.J., he was sent to Coast Guard Electronics School in Groton, Conn. His job at the Brooklyn supply point, where he has been stationed about a year, is to repair and renovate all types of electronic equipment.

Cunningham thought he knew something about crystal making before he arrived at the depot. "But this operation has opened my eyes," he says. "I had no idea crystals had to be so precise."

Cunningham's work has taken him to Coast Guard vessels in port or to nearby lighthouses. But in his three years in the service he has yet to take a cruise.

"I'm a landlubbing sailor," he says. "And I like it that way." Being in port every night allows him to lead a normal home life with his wife and six-months-old son.

At the depot, Cunningham has been staying at the enlisted men's barracks and eating in the troop mess hall.

"After Coast Guard blue," he says, "I had to get used to all the olive green. Especially the blankets - but I sleep just as good."

He admits that, surrounded by soldiers all day, he sometimes forgets he is in the Coast Guard. Just about then, someone will hum the "Anchors Aweigh" tune. That always reminds him.

Regards Israel 'Yank Colony'

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Frost, 86, the poet, said yesterday he regards Israel as "an American colony" — but only in the sense that the people there "have so much of the American people's spirit."

Frost made the comment before leaving by plane for Israel to lecture on American culture and civilization at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

The white-haired Frost, who recited a poem of his own at President Kennedy's inauguration, told newsmen he would spend only 10 days in Israel because "I've got America to attend to."

Taxpayer Is Responsible For All Facts, Figures

EACH Federal income taxpayer is responsible for the facts and figures entered in the return he signs, even if it is prepared with the assistance of an Internal Revenue Service Agent, acting District Director John H. Rauen, Jr. said yesterday.

"In advising taxpayers of this responsibility," Rauen said, "we must remind them that they are responsible under law for all entries and all supporting documents in their returns no matter who prepares it."

Welcomes Competence

The Revenue Service, he said, welcomes returns prepared by competent professional persons, but such assistants can only rely upon information provided by the taxpayer.

"The taxpayers themselves are the persons primarily and finally responsible," he said.

Author Mailer Pleads Guilty

NEW YORK (AP)—Author Norman Mailer pleaded guilty yesterday to a simple assault charge in the stabbing of his wife during a wild party at their apartment Nov. 30.

He pleaded to a misdemeanor charge to spare his wife and the publicity of a trial on more serious charges it was understood. The state agreed to deal and General Sessions Judge Mitchell D. Schweitzer scheduled sentencing for April 28.

Mailer, 37, could be put in jail for an indeterminate sentence of up to three years.

By his plea, he avoided a more serious charge of felonious assault, brought against him by a grand jury. This is a felony carrying a maximum sentence of 5 to 10 years in prison.

The state prosecuted Mailer after his wife, Adele, 35, refused to sign a complaint against him. She said she was drunk at the time and did not remember being stabbed with a penknife. Her wounds were not serious.

Cubs Have 8 Managers

Major Loop Baseball Opens Full Exhibition Slate Today

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ Associated Press Sports Writer

All 18 major league teams swing into action Saturday as the 1961 exhibition baseball season presents a full schedule in grapefruit and cactus circuits after opening with two games Friday.

For the first time 10 teams will represent the American League. The Washington Senators have moved their franchise to Minneapolis-St. Paul while Los Angeles and Washington are fielding new clubs.

There's a new look, too, in the National League. The Chicago

Cubs will have eight managers on the bench. The managerial staff consists of Elvin Rabe, Harry Craft, Vedic Himsel, Rip Collins, Goldie Holt, Bobby Aams, Charlie Grimm and Verlon Walker. They succeed Lou Boudreau.

Dark New
The only other new National League manager is Alvin Dark, who takes over the San Francisco Giants. This also is the first exhibition campaign for Gene Mauch, who took over the Philadelphia Phils at the start of the 1960 regular season.

The American League's most notable absentee among the managers is Casey Stengel, who was fired by the New York Yankees. His successor is Ralph Houk. Other new skippers include Joe Garagiola at Kansas City and Bob Scheffing at Detroit. Bill Rigney takes the reins of the new Los Angeles entry and Mickey Vernon steps into the managerial job in Washington.

Detroit Wins
In Friday's exhibitions, Detroit whipped the Chicago White Sox 14-7 while Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 10-9.

Saturday's schedule lists Milwaukee-Philadelphia at Clearwater, Fla.; St. Louis-New York at St. Petersburg, Fla.; Cincinnati-Chicago White Sox at Sarasota, Fla.; Pittsburgh-Baltimore at Miami; San Francisco-Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.; and Detroit-Minnesota Twins at Orlando, Fla.

Kansas City and the Chicago Cubs will divide their squads. One Kansas City group opposes the Los Angeles Dodgers at Vero Beach, Fla., while the other plays Washington at Pompano Beach, Fla. One Cubs' team meets the Los Angeles Angels at Palm Springs, Calif., and the other takes on Boston at Mesa, Ariz.

Ticket Sales Start To Climb For Big Title Fight Monday

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The third title fight between heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson picked up a little steam Friday.

Promoters said tickets were moving for Monday's 15-round match, and the closed-circuit television people talked glowingly of potential $1-million purses for each fighter.

Bill Fugazy, president of Feature Sports Inc., the promoters, estimated a gross of between $500,000 and $600,000 at Miami Beach Convention Hall. He said about 7,000 tickets had been sold in advance for over $300,000. Fugazy reported increased interest in the extra batch of cheapest ($20) seats made available in the final days.

Near $4 Million

Irving Kahn, president of the Closed-Circuit TV Co. that owns the ancillary rights, predicted theater TV, movies, domestic and foreign radio revenue would be over $3 million and possibly close to $4 million. The company has lined up 756,195 seats in 207 locations in 39 states and Canada. "Assuming we only sell 70 per cent of our capacity—and I think we will do better—that would be about $2,625,000 at an average of $3 a head," Kahn said.

"I figure Patterson should get at least $850,000 from the ancillary rights and Johansson about $625,000. This is on a 70 per cent capacity. With a little luck plus what each gets from the live gate, each fighter can walk out with close to $1 million."

Mostly Indoors

The fight will be held indoors in the 17,000-seat Convention Hall. Most of the theater TV locations are indoors too, but the weather factor could be important in luring people into the theater.

The talk was all money around fight headquarters.

Patterson told a news conference his third fight with Ingo will end the series.

"I wouldn't want a return bout if I fight," Patterson said. "There are other contenders who have been waiting a long time."

Johansson took Thursday off. Friday, he limbered up a bit shadow boxing and skipping rope.

Joe DiMaggio Helping Yanks

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Looking fit and ready to step into the batter's box, a sun-tanned Joe DiMaggio arrived at the New York Yankee camp Thursday eager to help the team in any way he can.

"Whatever Ralph (manager Houk) wants me to do, I'll be happy to do," said the retired Yankee centerfielder.

DiMaggio, wearing his old No. 5 and weighing 195 — the same as when he was spearhead of 10 Yankee pennants — obviously was delighted at being back in uniform for the first time since the end of the 1951 season. He is 46.

Pair Share Golf Lead

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Wright, a frequent tournament winner, and Jo Ann Prentice, who never won a tournament in five years as a pro, shot one-over-par 71s Friday to take the first-round lead in the $7,500 Miami Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Wright combined tremendous drives and excellent putting over the 6,320-yard Miami Springs course for her 33-71.

One of her drives carried 295 yards over palm trees on the 325-yard dogleg sixth hole. She out-putted after chipping up to earn a birdie three.

Cuts Strokes

Steady-shooting Miss Prentice fired a 36 on the first nine and a par 35 on the second half.

Barbara Greene shot a 35-38-73 for third place. She is only the fourth tournament for the 36-year-old golfer who became a pro last October.

Patty Berg and Barbara Romack shared fourth place with 74s. Louise Suggs shared a three-way tie for eighth place with Marlene Bauer Hagge and Mary Lena Faulk. They had 76s.

Trade Me Says Jim Owens; It's Fine Time Says Quinn

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Pitcher Jim Owens and the Philadelphia Phillies have had their annual spring hassle.

Owens wants to be traded. The club apparently is ready to take another big bite from his pay check.

The latest wrangle between the 27-year-old right-hander and his bosses occurred Thursday midnight.

John Quinn, general manager of the Phillies, says Owens came barging into his room and demanded to be traded.

"He had been causing a disturbance in the hotel, although not in my room," said Quinn. Proper action will be taken against him."

Proper action could be measured against last spring's loud debate when Owens quit the team for several hours in a huff over a $600 fine. The club said he had engaged in a brawl outside a Clearwater bar.

Lesser Fines
Owens was miffed because he was nixed for $600, while two other players involved only parted with $100.

After a brief talk with owner Bob Carpenter, Owens relented and rejoined the team. He was promised the $600 would be returned if he behaved during the season.

He never got it. The pitcher was sent home late in the season charged by Manager Gene Mauch with being out of condition. He asked then to be traded.

Quinn said Owens Thursday night threatened to go home. Mauch commented, "If Owens wants to play ball, he'll show up."

"Can't Understand"
"But I can't understand how a man with his talent fails to take advantage of the opportunity he has to make money."

Owens, who won 4 and lost 14 last year, packed up to leave camp for his Bradford, Pa., home. "I figure I don't fit into their plans and I want out," he said.

"I don't know why they didn't trade me during the winter. It looks as though there won't be any room for me as a starter. And I'm not about to become a relief pitcher."

This Will End Series Says Champ

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson said Friday that his third fight with Ingemar Johansson next Monday will end the series.

"I wouldn't want a return bout if I lost," said Patterson at a news conference.

"There are other contenders who have been waiting a long time."

"I believe the loser should step back and give the other contenders a chance."

Asked if he would fight Sonny Liston, the top-ranking contender from Philadelphia, if he won Monday, the champion said he'd rather not look past the coming fight.

But pressed again, he said, "Sure I'll fight Liston. But he'd have to get rid of some of the people around him. If I lose, I want to do it inside the ring and not outside the ring."

"I do know the people around him and some of them will have to be eliminated."

Patterson declined to identify the people.

Liston Says Floyd Will Beat Ingemar

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sonny Liston, heavy-titled slugger rated by many as the most formidable threat to heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson was a surprise visitor at Ingemar's camp Friday, and picked Patterson to beat the burly Swede at Miami Beach Monday night.

Liston reiterated that he would fight either Patterson or Johansson for nothing, a statement which Bill Fugazy, president of Feature Sports Inc., laughingly answered with: "We might take him up on that."

Liston said he thought he could out-punch either fighter at Monday's championship battle. He said he liked Patterson to win because of his style.

Youngest golfer to get a hole-in-one in 1960 was Kenneth Vincent, 8, of Fitchburg, Mass. He aced the 145-yard seventh hole at the Westminster, Mass., Country Club.

3 Average Double Figures

Hopewell, Salerno Share 11 Warrior Individual Titles

JUNIOR Russ Hopewell led the East Stroudsburg State College's basketball team in six scoring and rebounding departments in the 1960-61 season.

Hopewell had the top scoring average, 17.65, the most field goals, the most rebounds, most points in one game, most field goals in one game and most field goals in one game.

He scored 30 points against both King's and Philadelphia Textile and against King's hit 13 field goals, all seasonal marks. His 18 rebounds against Paterson and 200 on the season, were also team records.

Salerno Second High
Tony Salerno, one of the Warriors co-captains, earned five individual titles.

Salerno made the most free throws, 75, and had the best free throw average 77.2. He was also the most accurate field goal shooter, hitting 52.6 per cent of his shots. Salerno's 11 free throws in 12 free throw attempts against Montclair were also Warriors high marks for the season.

Three of the Warriors, Hope-finished with double figure scoring averages and a fourth John Polanchak missed by only half a point.

Walsh Hits 11.32
Salerno had a 15.05 average, while Larry Walsh scored at a rate of 11.32 a game and Polanchak averaged 9.50.

East Stroudsburg finished with a 13-8 mark and third place in the Eastern Division of the Pennsylvania State College Conference.

The Warriors averaged 77.30 a game offensively and 76.40 points defensively.

Young Kieq Steal News Track Show

CHICAGO (AP) — Hungary's

Istvan Rozsavlgyi won the Bankers Mile in a respectable 4:04.7, but an 18-year-old high school senior stole the show in the 25th Chicago Daily News Relays Friday night.

Tom Sullivan, who attends Chicago's St. George High School, whipped two veteran rivals and won the 1,000-yard run by a yard

EAST Stroudsburg State College's varsity and junior varsity basketball teams won semi-final games in the Varsity "S" Club Basketball Tournament last night and meet tonight at Stroud Union High School gymnasium for the title.

The "natural" game, which will not only decide the tournament champion but also the Normal Hill kingpin gets underway at 8:15. There will be a 7 p.m. preliminary between Palmerston's Sokols and Lim's Sporting Goods.

The junior varsity, playing as Fetherman's Paint Store, was the first team to gain the finals, eliminating Palmerston 85-66. Then in the nighttime, the varsity team, under the Brite Cleaners name, whipped defending champion Fango's Tailors 106-93. Actually Loftus Motors is the defending champion but switched to the Fango tag this year, while using the same players.

Both Well Played
Both games were well played, probably the two best outings of the week long tourney.

Fetherman's took an early lead and stayed on top all the way, although unable to get a commanding lead until late in the game.

Paul Grube scored 20 points for the winners, while Tom Gross hit 17, Jack Jones 13 and Burt Reese 10.

Fetherman's held only a 34-31 lead at half time but pushed in 51 points in the second half, with most of their field goals coming on fast breaks.

Free Throws Help

The winners hit only one more field goal than Palmerston 28-27 but collected 29 free throws. Palmerston had only 12 free throw points.

Brite had six men in double figures, with Russ Hopewell's 26 the high mark. Larry Walsh added 18, Joe Habakus, 17, Scott Weaver, 16 and Tony Salerno and John Murphy, 11 each.

when the critic coughs,

ADVERTISING is exposed to pneumonia

Advertising is purpose. Advertising is progress. Advertising is public. Advertising is always exposed. Nearly every cough of criticism about advertising spreads because the seed of infection is kept alive by the vitality of the public servant whose life it seeks to squelch.

Why then, hasn't advertising died?

Because advertising is healthy. Advertising is strength. Advertising swells the biceps of our economy. It helps us maintain a standard of living second to no nation in the world.

Advertising is the pulse of the business cycle. Advertising tells you about new products and services and snuffs your desire to enjoy them. It stimulates sales. New sales accelerate production. Greater production creates more jobs. Advertising encourages more people to enjoy more, so that more people may produce more... so that everyone may live better for less.

In monetary veins, advertising absorbs costs of newspapers, magazines, literature. It pays for the programs you watch, the music you hear, the news you receive through sight or sound. And it defrays costs of much of the entertainment you enjoy outside the home.

Without the lifeblood of advertising, how could we raise funds necessary for charity, research, education?

Yet, because advertising is public, it is exposed to hypercritical sniping. A cough of criticism about it often spreads to epidemic proportion. Good thing advertising is healthy. Healthy enough not only to build its own immunity, but to fortify the economy with the nutrients of progress.

What a shame the critic hasn't done something for his cough. And with so many advertised remedies on the market.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 8 or more, subtract 8. If the number is less than 8, add 8. Add the result to your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Megargel's To Handle Color TV

ZENITH Radio Corp. is going into the color television business this Fall, a spokesman for Megargel's at 311 Main St., Stroudsburg, reported yesterday.

He said Zenith has spent several million dollars over a period of eight years in research and development and is preparing to introduce a line of completely new and unique color TV receivers.

The research was aimed at improving the standards of both performance and reliability as well as simplification of use of the receiver in the home, he added.

Innovations will include a Zenith-developed color demodulation system which employs a new tube invented by company scientists. A three-gun shadow mask picture tube permits increased brightness, the local dealer said.

Dear Abby

Won — But Not Over

Dear Abby: Our daughter was recently married for the second time. She brought her husband home (she has been working out of town, and that's where she met him) and we are now introducing him to our friends and relatives.

He's a big, jolly guy; kind of loud and likes to talk. He is 43 and served in World War II as a First Sgt. in the U.S. Marine Corps. To hear him talk you would think the Marines won the war all by themselves. We have other men in this family who saw a lot of action with the Infantry and Navy, but they are not always trying to fight the war over again. Our daughter thinks he is the greatest, but isn't there a nice friendly way to put this guy off that the war is over?

NEW FATHER-IN-LAW
Dear New: For some "guys" Dear Abby: I married a woman who chased me for three years and finally wore me down. She was fine to my little boy when he was small, but now that he is 14 she is terrible to him. She won't let him sit in the living room unless he puts a rag behind his head because she says his hair oil ruins the furniture. She refuses to touch his soiled clothing and makes him carry them to the wash machine and throw them in. She hardly speaks to him. Just writes him notes like, "You have to scrub the porch so get home early today, Stupid." She won't walk down the street with him because she doesn't like the way he walks or has his hair cut. What should I do?

DISGUSTED

Dear Disgusted: Your son needs kindness and understanding — not abuse and ridicule. Explain this to your wife and insist on her cooperation — if you have to call in a marriage counselor or psyc'ologist.

Confidential to musician's girl: Don't let him fiddle around while you burn.

FBI-Police Chiefs To Hear Talk On Press Relations

SCRANTON—Mrs. Elsey L. Rutters, former resident of Claris Summit and experienced magazine editor and policewoman, will return to this area Tuesday to lecture at the FBI-Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police Association Major Police Problems Seminar on the subject "The Press, Public, and Police Relations."

"One of the most important phases of modern law enforcement," said F. A. Frohbose, special agent in charge of the Philadelphia FBI Office, "is understanding that the police, press and public must work together in order to provide the best possible protection and services to the community."

Nightclub Owner Freed On Flight

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Nightclub owner Lillian Reis was freed yesterday of a charge that she unlawfully fled from New Jersey to avoid prosecution for the murder of Vincent J. Blaney.

Judge Harold K. Wood of U.S. District Court ruled there was not enough evidence to hold the 32-year-old former chorus girl.

He ended her $10,000 bail, but Miss Reis still faces extradition to New Jersey on the murder charge brought by officials in Atlantic County.

She is free on $10,000 bail on the local extradition charge efforts.

Wood, on the federal charge said there was "no evidence from which it could be implied or inferred" that Miss Reis left New Jersey on Aug. 3, the day that Blaney was murdered.

All-Time High In Keystone

PRUDENTIAL Insurance Co. reported yesterday that in 1960 its life insurance in force among Pennsylvania residents rose to an all-time high of $9 billion.

Last year's record amount represented an increase of $635.5 million over the amount owned in the state in 1959.
